Direct communication between:

RECIFE (Cinco Pontas) and Maccio and Jaraguá.
RECIFE (Central and Barão do Rio Branco)
RECIFE (Brum) and Parahyba and Cabedello

On Sundays, Tuesdays, Thursday and Saturdays, returning on Sundays, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.

COMMUNICATION BETWEEN

RECIFE (Brum) and Natal
PARAHYBA and Natal

and vice-versa, on Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, sleeping at Independencia.

The Great Western Railway system, with 1,621 klms. of lines at present in traffic, serves the following States:

	Area sq. klms.	Population
ALAGOAS .....	58,491	700,000
PERNAMBUCO .....	128,395	1,300,000
PARAHYBA .....	74,731	500,000
RIO GRANDE DO NORTE .....	57,465	480,000
TOTAL .....	319,102	2,980,000

Note.—The figures relating to inhabitants refer to the year 1906; 20 per cent may safely be added to arrive at approximate figures for 1917.

Development of the system and its traffic since 1905.

	Klms. in traffic	Population	Goods, tons
1905 .....	1,276	1,813,444	708,935
1910 .....	1,475	2,214,503	907,135
1915 .....	1,621	1,975,586	1,066,260
1916 .....	1,621	742,390	1,192,394
1917 .....	1,621	3,289,562	1,366,660
1918 .....	1,621	3,720,075	1,470,916

The steady progress of the zone served by the Great Western shown by the above figures cannot fail to undergo further considerable impulse when the construction of the Porto Jaraguá (Alagoas), Cabedello (Parahyba), Natal (Rio Grande do Norte), and Recife (Pernambuco) is complete.

The plans and estimate of the first have been completed, whilst the construction of the Ports of Cabedello and Natal is being carried out under the administration of the Federal Government. It is expected that construction will be accelerated on the conclusion of the present crisis.

The construction of the Port of Recife on a scale and in technical conditions that will convert it into one of the most up-to-date ports of the Continent, is well advanced; an area amply sufficient for actual traffic has been completed and opened for traffic.

The geographical position of the Port of Recife is exceptionally advantageous, as it is practically the obligatory port of call for all ships from both Europe and North America destined for South America and vice-versa, as well as for ships bound from either coast of North or Central America for the Southern Atlantic, whatsoever their destination.

Owing to its advantageous situation, Recife is the port for most of the produce of the rich tropical zone of north-eastern Brazil, a fact which cannot fail to contribute considerably to the progress of the neighbouring zones likewise.

The favourable conditions and steady progress of this zone should attract the attention of European and American investors to the zone served by the Great Western Railway.

Although tropical, the zone is exceptionally healthy and, indeed, counts several health resorts, like Caruarú, Garanhuna, Floresta dos Leões, etc., to which residents of other and less healthy districts habitually resort.

The staple products of the zone are sugar in the lowland and cotton in the hinterland.

The soil is extremely rich and gives a splendid return—even without manures—for cultivation of Indian corn, beans, mandioca, carnauba wax, maniçoba, cocoa, coffee, etc.

Almost the entire region served by the Great Western Railway is considered amongst the best in the world for tropical fruits.

The quality of pineapples, cocoanuts, mangoes, pinhas, bananas and goiabas, etc., grown in the north-east of Brazil, is famous, and their production and export certain, in the near future, to take very large proportions.

Important canning factories already exist, though this industry is yet in its infancy and its resources practically untouched.

Information regarding the zone served by the Great Western Railway may be obtained on application to any of the Company's offices as below:—

Death of Sir Ernest Shackleton. It was with consternation and deep regret that we received the news of the death of Sir Ernest Shackleton, the undaunted explorer of the Antarctic. The disappearance of such a great explorer and scientist is not only a loss to the British Empire, but to the world at large, for his scientific researches were of value to all.

According to cables, Sir Ernest died suddenly of angina pectoris on 5th January, at or off South Georgia. His remains were transported to Montevideo where they await orders for removal to England.

Sir Ernest's visit to this city is still fresh in our memory, which makes his death come as a shock. His breezy personality and sterling character captivated one and all, and his lecture given at the Municipal Theatre one never to be forgotten.

The present expedition was to have been Sir Ernest's fourth voyage to the Antarctic regions, his first being under Captain Scott in 1901. In 1907-9 he commanded the British Antarctic Expedition, which got to within 97 miles of the South Pole and again in 1914-16, with which we are all well acquainted.

In recognition of his services to science, Sir Ernest received innumerable titles and decorations, amongst which Hon. Life Governor of Melbourne, Middlesex, Poplar, etc.; special gold and silver medal of the Royal Geographical Society; King's Polar Medal (2 bars); gold medals of the Geographical Societies of Scotland, Denmark, Belgium, France, Antwerp, Italy, America, Russia and City of Paris; Commander of Orders of Danneborg of Denmark; Pole Star of Sweden, St. Olaf of Norway; Officier Legion d'Honneur, Royal Crown of Prussia, Crown of Italy, St. Anne of Russia. Amongst the books by Sir Ernest Shackleton are "The Heart of the Antarctic" and "The Diary of a Troopship."

Captain Frank Wild, the "Quest's" second in command, is to carry the plans of the Expedition through. Capt. Wild has had great experience in the exploration of the Antarctic, where he has spent about 10 years of his life under different expeditions. He was second in command of the Imperial Trans-Atlantic Expedition in 1914; accompanied Capt. Scott in the ill-fated expedition of the "Discovery" in 1901-4; Sir Ernest Shackleton in 1907-9; Dr. Mawson in 1911-13 and again Sir Ernest Shackleton in 1914-16 and lastly the present expedition.

Death of Dr. Amaro Cavalcanti. We deeply regret to record the death of the eminent Brazilian juriconsult, Dr. Amaro Cavalcanti, which took place on 28 January, 1922, at his residence in this city.

Dr. Cavalcanti was born at Caico, Rio Grande do Norte, on 15 August, 1851. In 1881 he received the title of Counsellor at Law of the United States, after having studied at the Union University of Albany, U.S.A. In 1894, Dr. Cavalcanti was appointed Minister Plenipotentiary to the Republic of Paraguay. In 1896 he was elected Deputy to National Congress for the State of Rio Grande do Norte, and in 1897 became Minister of Justice and Interior in the Government of Prudente de Moraes. In 1906 he was appointed Minister of the Supreme Tribunal and in 1915 was one of the Brazilian delegates at the Pan-American Financial Conference held at Washington. In 1917 he was made Prefect of the Federal District and in the same year was appointed a member of the Hague Arbitration Tribunal. At the time of his death, Dr. Cavalcanti was President of the Society of International Law and member of the Institute of Lawyers, and the Brazilian Historical and Geographical Institute.

Dr. Amaro Cavalcanti was likewise a noted writer on finance, economics, politics, law and other subjects, amongst his most imports books being: The Brazilian Language and Its Agglutination, 1884, in English; Finances du Brésil, 1889, in French; Monetary and Banking Reform, 1891, in Portuguese; The National Circulating Medium, 1893, Portuguese; The Elements of Finance, 1896, Portuguese; International Justice, 1902, Portuguese; The Federal Judiciary in Brazil and the United States (Univ. of Pennsylvania Law Review), 1911; Pa-American Questions, 1913; La Codification du Droit International Americain, (Rev. Gen. de Droit. Int. Public), 1914; Restrictive Clauses in International Arbitration Treaties (Am. Journal of Intern. Law), 1914; and many others.

Business Conditions, if anything continue paralysed. Exchange has weakened partly owing to end of month liquidations and partly to its control by the Government Bank. The illness of the Bank of Brazil's exchange manager will make matters worse, for there will be very little doing in exchange. The outlook in anything but encouraging and what is going to happen to business in general is hard to say. Everything is paralysed and what is worse, rumours upon rumours of possible failures of important concerns is making the market nervous and may lead to demoralisation. The help required would seem to lie in the hands of the Government, for were control of banks to be relaxed, there would be an immediate reaction which would put new life into the market. Under present conditions improvement seems hopeless and unless demand for coffee improves considerably, we shall see lower rates before long.

The wholesale trade is very dull, although industrial concerns have not felt the depression to the extent anticipated; textile mills are not working full time and stocks are accumulating. Importers are the greatest sufferers from the past and present depression, for not only have they sustained enormous losses owing to deflation of prices and fall in exchange, but their business is practically paralysed owing to up-country people buying from hand to mouth.

The failure of an important Campos firm has hit some Rio houses rather badly. Conditions generally in the interior show but little improvement, many dealers believing that prices will come down considerably yet and are therefore in no hurry to place their orders.

The recent earthquake in S. Paulo and part of Minas and the long spell of heat that we are enjoying (sic) is not conducive to optimism. In fact, the temper of the market is anything but good and as depression continues, the cost of living increases, which at this time of the year is not unusual. We are entering lean months and should make our arrangements accordingly!

Banking Restrictions and Inspection. Enough cannot be written with regard to the burning question of the moment—official control of banking, for it is generally recognised that the attitude of the Government has been a weighty deterrent to restoration of confidence in local markets. No greater injury could be inflicted on a country than to impair its banking facilities. This was amply proved during the war when Germany was cut off from the world and was no small instrument in bringing about her ultimate surrender. So far as certain banks are concerned, they believe the Government's policy a mistaken one and that it will bring its own corrective—though at what price will depend on its duration. Attempting to stop speculation by placing fiscals and inspectors who do not understand the banking system is doomed a certain death, as speculation can be done by cable as easily as through a bank locally. In other words, curbing speculation does not consist in abolishing it from the books of any particular bank, but in crippling the operations of the speculator.

Nothing could more effectively stop any speculative banking business in a British bank, for example, as well as some others, than the assurance of the manager that it would be stopped, for he is in a far better position to judge what is a speculative operation and what is not than an inspector new to the routine of the bank, as the manager knows the customer and what his record has been in such dealings.

If the only object was to curb speculation, it would seem that the Government could have obtained the end in view by consulting the more conservative banks as to means of procedure. But instead a scheme has been introduced containing many clauses which banks take exception to, such as breach of confidence; interference with proved workable systems, the result of long experience in many countries; creation of bureaucratic forms and trouble; arbitrary control of exchange by which artificial movements can be made which must cause great loss to the controlling bank and general liability to abuse of every description.

There is no doubt that tampering with banks is specially hard on business, particularly so for exchange, which has been pegged and is now on the weak side entirely owing to Government control. Moreover, such treatment of great banking institutions of world-wide repute cannot but have a detrimental effect on Brazil's credit in the great financial markets abroad.

The Veto of the Estimates of Expenditure. The veto of the estimates of expenditure by the President of the Republic, though not altogether unexpected by a small circle, came as a surprise to the majority and a shock to those who were interested in the sanction of the estimates without alteration, the latter representing the civil service and army and navy, who were to benefit by undue and disproportionate increases in salaries, etc.

The attitude of the President is highly commendable and the courageous manner in which he not only vetoed the scandalous estimates of expenditure as passed by Congress, but faced a possible reaction of the classes interested, cannot but call for admiration.

It is an unprecedented action, for no President has so far vetoed so important an Act of Congress.

Dr. Epitacio Pessoa is the first President who has administered the country in accordance with the power vested in his office and he is to be heartily congratulated on the fearless manner in which he has carried them out for the good of his country. Few men have fathomed the economics and finances of this country as Dr. Epitacio, and it has been this knowledge that saved Brazil from financial collapse and possibly bankruptcy, for had it not been for his wise administration, particularly with regard to estimates of expenditure for the current year, we should now not be on the high road to recovery, but be suffering from the depressing influence of a deficit of 200,000 contos or more which there seems no hope of meeting! It was on this account that the power to veto was exercised. Whatever the consequences, Dr. Epitacio Pessoa will have the satisfaction of knowing that his action was not only patriotic, but enjoys support from all eminent men who have the interest of Brazil at heart.

At present Congress—mainly for political reasons—are blind to the disastrous consequences of abusive estimates, for what care they what happens to the country financially so long as politics are prime factors?

The confidence which foreign creditors have exhibited in Brazil lately is a proof that they hold President Epitacio's policy as sound, and his latest veto will only confirm that conviction. We have also every hope that Dr. Epitacio will also take a broader view of banking in this country, and observe that present rates of exchange are not what the position of the country warrants, but a result of restrictions and impositions on banks—particularly foreign—who are the very lifeblood of the country. We have no axe to grind when we speak of banks—they are cosmopolitan in every sense; what favours one, favours all, and, on the other hand, what hurts one, hurts all. It is, therefore, the majority who fix the rates of exchange and not any particular bank; it is also equally certain that every bank will cover itself against all eventualities, with the result that to-day we have Rio exchange on London at a rate unnaturally low!

The total adverse balance of trade for the first eleven months of the past year has been considerably reduced and by close of December should show a balance against exports of less than two millions sterling. The year 1922 will open with a favourable balance, so that the greatest factor against economic and financial recovery has almost disappeared. Now remains the task of raising exchange to a rate compatible with the demands of both exports or imports, and we are confident that Dr. Epitacio has means of solving this problem with the same wisdom and ability that he solved the coffee question.

Returning to the Estimates, the President's power to veto has been mooted; it is questioned whether the action is constitutional, but if his sanction has the power to make the law, his powers of veto must also be supreme—any other construction would be contrary to the Constitution of the Republic.

From an administrative aspect, says our brilliant contemporary, "O Journal," the dilemma in which the President found himself was simply this: sanction an estimate with a deficit of 200,000 contos, knowing that in so doing he would be acting entirely against the interests of the country, or veto it for the good of the community?

Dr. Pessoa preferred to face all adverse factors and acted as only a man of his courage would act, and all right-thinking men are with him, as the approval of his action by all the Commercial Associations and Chambers of Commerce only proves, for who are in a better position to judge in these matters than the great bodies of our commercial and financial thinkers? They are the best judges of the disastrous consequences of mal administration and their satisfaction at Dr. Pessoa's action should strengthen the President's attitude against the abuses of political interests.

.. November Movement—Volume... The foregoing trade returns for November were anything but encouraging so far as volume is concerned. There was a big disappointing shrinkage in the volume of exports of 32,256 tons or 18.5 per cent. whilst the falling off in that of imports was insignificant and amounts to only 7,312 tons or 3.2 per cent. The adverse balance of trade consequently, increased by 24,944 tons, the total for the month amounting to 39,993 tons.

The steady falling off in exports during the months of October and November was the consequence of the decline in demand from abroad for our produce, particularly coffee, owing to the uncertainty of exchange and valorisation. The small shrinkage in imports is due chiefly to the entry of material for public works and railways. The disappointing increase in the volume of trade shows how necessary it is to restrict imports if this country is to maintain the favourable balance of trade in value. Congress raised the duties on certain unessentials, particularly on wines and other spirits, but these will have an insignificant effect on the total volume of imports. There are many other articles which could be heavily taxed which have been left alone. In the meantime, the balance of volume of trade increases, endangering the favourable one in value. Should the latter turn against the country, the results would be disastrous. Every effort, therefore, should be made to husband the favourable balance, for it has been chiefly this balance that has prevented exchange from falling further in the face of other and serious adverse factors, such as banking restrictions, etc.

.. Eleven Months' Movement.—Volume... Compared with the same period last year, the volume of trade for the eleven months ended November last shows a shrinkage in exports of 196,617 tons or 10.1 per cent and in imports of 515,347 tons or 17.4 per cent, and, consequently, 418,730 tons or 41.5 per cent in the adverse balance of trade, which up to the close of November amounted to 589,313 tons, as against 1,008,043 tons for the same period in 1920, to which extent shipping employed in the transport of imports failed to find return cargoes at Brazilian ports.

Values—November Movement. In spite of the increase in adverse balance of volume of trade and the fall of exchange from an average in October of 8 11-64d to 7 29-32d in November, the favourable balance of value of trade shows increase in November as compared with the previous month.

This peculiar discrepancy can only be explained by the fact that some class of imports of low value arrived during November.

The decrease in November as compared with October is as follows:—

	Imports	Exports
Volume .....	- 3.2%	-18.5%
Value .....	-16.7%	-11.4%

Imports show a shrinkage in volume of 3.2 per cent and exports of 18.5 per cent, whilst in value imports show shrinkage of 16.7 per cent and exports of 11.4 per cent. Exchange in Nov was lower than that in October by 17-64d, so that under ordinary circumstances values of exports should have fallen off to a greater extent, but the contrary actually took place. No light is thrown on the subject by exports of coffee, as compared with October quantity shows decrease of 2.8 per cent and value of 5.6 per cent. Until detailed figures are forthcoming therefore, this strange occurrence can only be put down—as previously stated—to some heavy import of low value.

Compared with the previous month, value of exports in Nov. show a shrinkage of £538,000 or 11.4 per cent and of imports of £627,000 or 16.7 per cent, and, consequently, an increase in the balance of trade of £89,000 or 4.9 per cent. The total balance of trade in November amounted to £1,904,000 in favour of exports, as against £1,815,000 in October.

Eleven Months' Movement—Values. For the 11 months ended November, there was an all round shrinkage, of which £49,477,000 or 48.0 per cent in exports, £56,403,000 or 49.6 per cent in imports, and, consequently, £6,925,000 or 64.3 per cent in the adverse balance of trade, which up to the close of November totalled £3,842,000, as against £10,767,000 for the same period last year. The year will therefore close with an unfavourable balance of about £1,800,000 to £2,000,000.

F.O.B. Value, 11 Months, by Class:—

	1921 £1,000	1920 £1,000	Ino. or Dec. £1,000	%
I Animals and their products	6,005	13,933	- 7,928	56.9

III Vegetable ditto	45,963	85,792	-39,829	46.4
Total	53,061	102,538	-49,477	48.2

Of the total f.o.b. value of exports corresponding to the eleven months ended November last, 11.3 per cent was accounted for by Class I; 1.9 per cent by Class II, and 86.8 per cent by Class III. Compared with last year, there was an all round falling off in exports, of which 56.9 per cent in Class I, 61.1 per cent in Class II, and 46.4 per cent in Class III.

Ditto, 1913 ...	11,594	35,995	61.9	22,181	38.1	58,176

Compared with the previous month, there was an all round shrinkage in exports, of which 31,000 bags or 2.8 per cent in quantity and £201,000 or 5.9 per cent in value of coffee and £317,000 or 15.9 per cent in value of "other" exports.

Compared with the same period in 1920, exports during the eleven months ended November last show increase of 669,000 bags or 6.3 per cent in quantity, but shrinkage of £19,300,000 or 30.8 per cent in value of coffee. The discrepancy, as we stated in our last analysis, was the result of the slump of prices and exchange. Other produce shows shrinkage as compared with the previous year of £30,174,000 or 37.7 per cent.

Up to the close of November last, coffee accounted for 58.7 per cent of total exports and other produce for 41.3 per cent, as against 49.2 and 50.8 per cent respectively in 1920 and 61.9 and 38.1 per cent in 1913.

Mandioca versus Wheat. The Brazilian Agricultural Society recently forwarded generous samples of mandioca flour to Italy, where experiments were made in mixing it with wheaten flour for making bread, with considerable success. Confectionery with as much as 33 per cent mandioca flour was also made and reported as highly satisfactory and comparable with the all-wheat kinds. Brazil imports annually wheat in grain and flour to the value of 200,000 contos, and our contemporary "O Paiz" justly enquires whether the moment is not propitious for experimenting in Brazil in the same manner as in Italy?

Sugar. Now that a sugar valorisation is on the boards for Brazilian producers, the following culled from "Facts About Sugar" may be of interest to those promoting the scheme:—"In April, 1920, when the price of sugar was rapidly mounting as the result of an unreasoning scramble by purchasers to obtain supplies, we took occasion to point out in these columns that the situation then prevailing was an unhealthy one that was certain to bring a reaction disastrous to producers. This prediction was later fulfilled in far more destructive measure than we anticipated. Few sugar producers in the U.S. profited to any extent by the short and sudden upswing of prices during the early months of last year, but they have all suffered tremendous losses: as the result of the foolish excesses of that period to which they in no wise contributed. In the case of a world commodity such as sugar excessively high prices are their own corrective, as they immediately attract supplies from every quarter of the globe with the result that the price pendulum is carried to the opposite extreme. The accuracy of this contention was fully demonstrated by later events, when almost a million tons of unneeded sugar drawn from all countries of the world was dumped upon this market with a demoralising effect that has not yet been overcome."

Applying these remarks to Brazil: What chance have local exporters of competing with other and larger producing countries, if prices are to be artificially raised? It means that all surplus sugar will have to be stored in hopes of a famine or a war!

World's Cattle Statistics. "The Producer," a journal published at Denver, U.S.A., gives the following table of cattle in the chief producing countries:—Australia 13,064,000, Austria 7,690,000, Brazil 37,500,000, Canada 9,447,000, Denmark 2,286,000, France 12,755,000, Germany 16,905,000, Hungary 5,075,000, India 146,000,000, Italy 6,240,000, Japan 1,307,000, Madagascar 7,000,000, Morocco 1,173,000, New Zealand 3,113,000, Roumania 4,459,000, Russia in Europe 37,563,000, South Africa 5,975,000, Spain 3,712,000, Tunis 635,000, United States 68,923,000, United Kingdom 11,732,000, Argentina 27,392,000, Uruguay 7,803,000.

According to these figures Brazilian herds have increased by 7,000,000 head since 1914 and at the present time actually exceed those of Argentina in number. The trouble lies in the fact that Brazilian cattle are of a poor type and not suited for slaughtering by the freezing plants. We are glad, however, to hear that breeders are taking an increased interest in the grade of pasture as well as cattle and that at no great distant date an ample supply of cattle will be forthcoming from Brazil acceptable to the European markets.

Danish Cement Industry. Broadly speaking, Denmark rests upon an enormous stratum of limestone and chalk rising to the surface especially in a deposit extending from north-west to south-east, mostly in the shape of soft, pure writing chalk, which is an excellent raw material for the manufacture of cement. In addition, it is chemically almost pure and can be easily prepared and the deposits are practically inexhaustible. The second raw material, the clay, is available throughout the country and large deposits are found where the chalk appears on the surface. The pioneer of the Danish cement industry was a small works on the Isle of Bornholm, where only hydraulic lime was produced. In 1868 the first actual Portland cement works was started and since that date several large factories have been erected. Total production amounts to about 4,000,000 Barrels of 180 kilos each, about two-thirds of which is exported. The power at the disposal of the factories amounts to 14,000 h.p. and as they are situated on the seaboard Danish cement is dumped from the factory direct into the ship's hold. The war hit the Danish cement industry hard and stopped export, but the overseas trade is now being developed and has almost assumed pre-war figures.

Herba Maté.—A Little Known Tea. ("Statist," 31 Dec.) Although maté is sold in most of the great stores and the principal grocers' shops in London, and can, or could at least before the war, be obtained in the leading capitals of Europe, it is a tea exceedingly little known and little appreciated by English, and indeed by European, peoples generally. It is, however, the principal tea consumed over an immense area of the continent of South America. Probably more maté is consumed between Patagonia and about the 33rd parallel south of the Line than any other beverage during the course of twelve months. The great source of supply is the State of Parana in the United States of Brazil. Very little effort is made, and is apparently needed, in its cultivation. Maté is cultivated, but a very large part of the total consumed in South America is collected in a wild state in the forests of Parana. Yerba maté is of the holly family and grows to anything between 7 feet and 15 feet or 16 feet in height. The leaves are collected largely by women and children, and are subjected to a process of drying not unlike that to which the leaves of the Asiatic plant are subjected in India and China. From a health point of view it is believed to be more beneficial, or at least less injurious, than the Asiatic variety so generally consumed in Europe. It has hardly any tannin in its composition. It is diuretic and is a mild aperient. Medical men attached to the armies of Argentina, Brazil and Paraguay are of opinion that it has a certain food value. This opinion is very commonly held over a large area of South America. It is asserted that soldiers and workers with a plentiful supply of maté and very little food have been able to perform tasks the ability to perform which would be difficult to account for except on the assumption that maté tea has a real food value. In the countries where it is largely consumed it is generally taken through a silver tube without either milk or sugar. Milk and sugar can, of course, be added if desired; but on the great ranches and sheep runs, where it is mostly largely consumed, neither milk nor sugar is obtainable. It has one undoubted advantage, that whereas Asiatic tea rapidly deteriorates after being made, maté tea after standing for hours can be consumed without any apparent ill-effects. Moreover, it is possible from a given unit of supply to make two or three or even four infusions. As a result it is a very cheap beverage. In spite of all the advantages which are claimed for it, consumers in Europe are largely confined to people who have become for one reason or another used to South American customs. During the past 50 years spasmodic, but not well-sustained efforts have been made to popularise this beverage in Europe. There is, of course, here an ample supply of Asiatic tea, and custom and long habit, therefore, are against its general adoption in Europe. It is worth attention, however, by those who do not find Asiatic tea agree with their constitution. The total supply known to the international market at present does not exceed 100 million lb., or about one-quarter of the quantity of Asiatic tea imported into this country in normal times. This, however, is a question of demand, because the amount available is many times in excess of the amount annually gathered.

Business Outlook in U.S. for 1922. (Babson's Barometer Letter, 27 Dec, 1921). On a recent trip covering some 5,000 miles through the U.S. and Canada, I have found most people waiting for "the boom." I heard a great deal about a "secondary period of inflation." Unless our bankers and Congress go stark mad, I can see no prospect of any great inflationary movement. It is quite likely that by the middle of the year various steps will be taken to quicken business. Some plan to facilitate foreign buying will probably be attempted. The Administration is going to do all that it can this year to help improve trade activity. Temporarily, such measures can succeed and we may have a short upward movement, as happened in the year 1868. To a limited extent it is possible to stimulate business and create a wave of optimism. While clients should be prepared to benefit by such a movement, they should not expect a repetition of the price inflation experienced a few years ago. Neither should they mistake such improvement for the beginning of a period of prosperity. Fundamental conditions, both at home and abroad, are not sound enough to form the basis of a long swing upward in business this year.

Commodity Prices.—The time has not yet come to buy heavily. Producing costs must decline still further. Labour and freight rates will be less. With the exception of certain commodities, such as wool, rubber, sugar, copper, zinc, quicksilver, coffee and a few other materials, we do not advise heavy purchases at this time. Buyers should bear in mind, however, the possibility of a temporary spurt about the middle of the year. While such a movement will not call for long swing contracts, buyers should protect themselves against temporary advances in materials which they must have. During the next few months it will be possible to see more clearly just what action should be taken in this connection.

Labour.—The most threatening labour situations are in coal mining and on the railroads. The mine case will come to a head in March. The railroad case may break at any time. It depends on whether the operators are willing to obey the Esch-Cummings Act and deal with the Railroad Labour Board. In other lines, however, there should be relatively little trouble next year. Wage rates are declining as fast as the cost of living will permit. The workers are now on the under side of the cycle, and will continue in a tractable frame of mind until employment increases. Then the shoe will again be on the other foot. The labour question is by no means settled. It is only dormant.

Money Rates.—Continued easing in bank rates should be seen next year. Already commercial paper rates have dropped from 8 to about 5 per cent. The Federal Reserve rediscount rate is now 4½ to 5½ per cent, compared with 7 per cent a year ago. During the next few weeks a further reduction will probably be made. Call money should also rule easier after the turn of the year. Call and collateral loans, however, may not reach the extreme low rates of previous depression periods. Trade and bankers acceptances, now furnish employment in business for a vast amount of funds. A surplus of idle money on call is not so likely to accumulate. At present the banks are holding about $100,000,000 of acceptances. The general tendency of all classes of loans, however, is toward lower rates.

A Retrospect. (Circular of Sir S. W. Royle & Co, Manchester 1921). Business during 1921 has been conducted under exceptional difficulties and few commercial houses can anticipate with satisfaction the result of their year's trading. Hopes of better conditions have been raised from time to time, only to end in disappointment, and, speaking generally, there has been little recovery from the slump which commenced in the summer of last year and which has affected all trades and all markets. The heavy falls in the value of most goods has rendered necessary readjustments of wages and business has been paralysed from time to time by industrial disputes, culminating in the great coal strike which terminated at the end of June, after lasting three months. The second half of the year has been comparatively free from these disturbing factors, but business in the home trade has continued mainly for near delivery, neither manufacturers nor consumers caring to commit themselves far ahead. The German Reparation (Recovery) Act came into force in April and the Safe-guarding of Key Industries Act in October, and, though there has been some confusion and delay in the working, the new regulations do not so far appear to have appreciably affected values. Oversea trade has been much hampered by financial stringency and by the course of the foreign exchanges which in many cases have been most erratic, and from these causes together with the considerable fall in values abroad, exporters have had to face some heavy losses. Sea freights, with some important exceptions, have been further reduced and still easier rates may soon be looked for. The costs of inland transport on coal, limestone, etc., have been lowered and it is reasonable to expect concessions on other goods. Some hopes are entertained that affairs generally are becoming more settled and that, with the lower level of prices now ruling, some improvement in business may be looked for in the New Year, especially if the Irish question is out of the way and good results accrue from the Washington Conference.

Cereals. (Circular of International Institute of Agriculture, Rome.) The aggregate yield of wheat in 1921 was 75.4 million metric tons against 70.3 in 1920 or 7 per cent larger; the rye yields were 20.5 million as compared with 15.0 million or 36.0 per cent more; the total for barley was 21.1 million, about equal to last year's; while oats aggregated 43.9 million against 50.5 last year or 13 per cent less. The maize data are not quite so complete, nor are those of potatoes and sugar beet, as returns from some large producing countries are not to hand. The aggregate returns of maize already available are for 86.3 million tons as compared with 88.8 million in 1920 or 3 per cent less; of potatoes 63.3 million tons as compared with 70.6 or 10 per cent less and of sugar beet 28.0 million against 28.6 in 1920 or 2 per cent less. The aggregate data of available linseed returns show a decided reduction of 32 per cent of yield as compared with 1920 (6 million against 9 million tons). This decrease is due to decline in areas and the returns of British India play a great part in the modification. The cotton yield in U.S. is estimated at 1.8 million tons against 2.9 million last year. The total produce of silk cocoons in Spain, France, Italy and Japan, is estimated for 1921 at 267 thousand tons in cocoons as compared with 271 thousand in 1920. For winter sowings for 1921-22 no data as to areas and germination are yet to hand; the condition on 1 Dec. was generally good in Bulgaria, Gt. Britain, Ireland, Hungary, and British India; average in Germany, Southern Italy, Czecho-Slovakia, and U.S., while injury from dry weather is reported from Belgium, France and Northern Italy. Finally, the data of recent live stock statistics from Denmark and Canada show a material increase over 1920 of horses, cattle and pigs

Lead Market Report. (Cookson & Co, London, 6 January.) Prices in the near position have not moved during the week until to-day, when Jan. lead was quoted at 2s 6d over April. It would not be surprising if this backwardation became more pronounced as it would seem as if the Jan. bear position is not yet covered. Consumption shows some increase, especially as far as manufactured goods are concerned. Trade in these products shows a considerable improvement as compared with the closing months of last year. Supplies are still restricted and it is possible that should there be any sudden improvement in demand, we may see rather erratic movement in prices now that all reserves have been exhausted.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS, ETC.

The War Criminals. The rush of events, during the last two or three weeks, has been so marked that incidents of importance may well have escaped the attention of the general reader of newspapers. The report of the Inter-Allied Commission to the Supreme Council, on the methods employed, and the results arrived at, by the judgments of the Leipzig Tribunal, should be borne in mind, especially in view of the apparent determination of the Washington Conference to sanction the employment of submarines as weapons of war; under not very formidable conditions, not only against warships, but against merchant and passenger vessels.

The substance of the above Commission's Report to the Supreme Council is telegraphed as follows:—

Firstly: No satisfaction was given to the Allies by the Leipzig Tribunal regarding the trials, except in a small number of cases; and no sufficient effort was made to elicit the facts. As to the sentences, the Tribunal, also, in the majority of cases, gave no satisfaction whatever; freeing prisoners who ought to have been condemned, and not applying the proper penalties to those who were.

Secondly: The Commission is of opinion that no further cases should be submitted for judgment to the Leipzig Tribunal; and that, consequently, Art. 228 of the Versailles Treaty, and Allies Note of 7th May, 1920, last paragraph, should be put in force; the German Government being ordered to surrender the accused to the Allied Powers, for trial by them."

Cables: WHARTON - NATALNORTE

A cable from Berlin says, in effect, that the Berlin papers are by way of showing great alarm regarding the terms of the above cited Report, in which the Paris Commission considered the Leipzig trials null and void, demanding the extradition of the War Criminals; and their trial before a Tribunal, which will take care that these murderers of women, children, wounded men, nurses and non-combatants, have, meted out to them, the Justice they have so often and so arrogantly demanded.

The "Vorwärts" while disavowing sympathy for the War-Felons referred to, says that compliance with the Commission's demands may have "a very bad effect in Germany"; while the "Vossische Zeitung" believes that "no German Government would dare to execute such an order." If these be the ideas and the language in vogue in vanquished Germany, then the sooner the Germans are made to understand that they must pay the penalty of their hideous crimes, the better!

France and England. A cable received here the other day, contained a statement, attributed to Lord Grey, a political opponent, that Mr. Lloyd George and his Cannes Conference were the cause of M. Briand's resignation, and the consequent fall of his Ministry; also that, in future, matters of high policy would be settled in the good old fashioned way, between the duly instructed diplomatic representatives of the respective countries, and not, as now, referred to Councils and Conferences assembled ad hoc. M. Briand told his friends, say the cables, that he resigned because he was not sufficiently supported by his colleagues at home. Others put it that he "threw up the sponge," because the "Block" of 240 Deputies thought proper to send him a species of "ultimatum," in which they dictated the policy he was to follow, in categorical terms; basing themselves, not on communications received from him, but on indirect and inaccurate information supplied by others. This version seems the most "vraisemblable," because M. Briand's prompt appearance in the Chamber of Deputies with the account of his stewardship, in which he showed that he had simply carried out the policy adumbrated in their "ultimatum," so completely "took the wind out of their sails," that his speech was greeted with a roar of applause from the Chamber; in the midst of which he, so to speak, sank his Ministerial ship with all sail set, colours flying and bands playing the "Marseillaise!" In other words, he resigned. His resignation was reluctantly accepted by M. Millerand, the President of the Republic; his policy in all essential points, cordially adopted by his successor, M. Poincaré; and the Block of 450 Deputies, who "formed up" to support the latter, virtually constituted an emphatic Vote of Confidence in M. Briand, their outgoing Minister!

M. Poincaré's Policy. On 19th January the new Prime Minister of France read his programme of government in the Chamber of Deputies, declaring that his ambition was to capture the sympathy of Parliament, at the same time requiring, on the part of the latter, respect for the treaties which fixed the conditions of peace.

Referring to reforms demanded by the financial situation, the re-establishment of order disturbed by the war, and the more effective collection of taxes, he added: If, despite our most energetic efforts, we see no other way, we shall have no choice but to compel Germany to fulfil her engagements, and to repair the damage she caused.

It would be the most scandalous of iniquities if France, victorious, and with 10 departments devastated, had to make good, at her own cost, the ruin brought upon her; and to saddle her taxpayers with the pensions, and other indemnities, due to the sufferers by the war. He deprecated the propaganda which represented France as dominated by imperialist madness. The war inflicted on France such immense sacrifices that she purchased, dearer than any other nation, the peace she now seeks to consolidate. France asks no more than the observance of the treaties signed by Germany, France and the other Allies. On this point France cannot give way.

Examining the German position, he said the German chiefs persisted in representing it as insoluble, and demonstrated how that country, where the taxes were lower than in France, did not collect the tribute with regularity; gave itself up to extravagant expenses, allowing its manufacturers to the same time to invest the foreign securities it possessed in enterprises outside their own country. Its companies distribute enormous dividends, its economic power increases day by day; and, if the State be ruined, the nation is enriched!

Until the conditions of the Versailles Treaty are fulfilled, the Allies will maintain, integrally, the sanctions already established, and will contemplate new penalties should such be necessary.

Referring to the Anglo-French Pact, to consolidate the peace, France will be happy if she can conclude this alliance on a footing of perfect equality. France, England and Italy must enter into an agreement in order, together, to prevent if possible any further outbreak of war between Greece and Italy, and to execute integrally the Convention of Angora, re-establishing tranquillity at the gates of Europe. With regard to the Genoa Conference, France will insist on the conditions stated in the protocol of the Congress of Cannes being accepted; unless such were guaranteed, France would be compelled to reserve her liberty of action.

Later on, a counter proposal was presented by M. Poincaré to Mr. Lloyd George, regarding the modifications to be introduced in the Anglo-French Pact of Guarantee. These propose the unlimited duration of the same, instead of 10 years reciprocity, in case of aggression by Germany, and, further, the immediate resort to force, not only in case of an attack on French territory, but also on allied forces in the neutral zone of the Rhine; they indicate the necessity of negotiations, given the eventuality of threats on the East frontier, as well as permanent agreements with the parties interested. All the above proposals are formulated in conciliatory tones.

The French-Nationalist Treaty (Angora), in which England accepted integrally the French points of view (continues the telegram) will be examined, in February, at a meeting between M. Poincaré, for France, Lord Curzon for England, and Signior Bonomi, for Italy. The question of Tangier will be dealt with in conversations between Lord Curzon, M. de St. Hilaire, and Marquis Merry del Val.

As to the Genoa Conference, M. Poincaré thinks recognition of the Soviets of Russia should be presented for deliberation separately. Reparations are not to be mentioned at this conference, but will be considered later on, when, (in a few days), M. Lartigue proceeds to London, to deal directly with the British Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Ireland. Dublin, 16.—The Viceroy of Ireland this day delivered to Mr. Mike Collins and other members of the Provisional Government of Southern Ireland the direction of the public affairs of that part of the country. On 23rd inst., Sir James Craig, for North, and Mr. Mike Collins for South, Ireland, established a concordat—and thereby a world's record at the same time), according to the terms of which, Ulster goods have ceased to be boycotted in South Ireland, and clerks and other employees, are no longer to be "sacked" out of their situations for being "Holy Romans" in Ulster! (Faith, it would take but a small "sack" to hould the religious views of some of the Bank clerks we know!)

In spite of the advance in exchange as compared with Saturday, 21st Jan., which was chiefly the result of the President's veto of the estimates of expenditure, which created a favourable impression, the market closed on Saturday paralysed, but with an advance of 1-32d in the Bank of Brazil and 1-16d in other banks on previous Saturday's close.

In spite of the fact that banks have ample cash reserves, they are not willing—and rightly so—to do much business, owing to restrictions and delay in sanctions by inspectors.

Bills continue scarce, both coffee and produce markets showing little activity.

To sum up, the exchange market is stagnant and what there is doing is very poor material for a money article. The future is obscure and any improvement depends on Government action with regard to control of banks.

TO THE ADVERTISER:

Your aim in placing announcements in a paper is primarily because you know that what you offer meets the eye of persons most likely to be interested. Once readers are interested it rests with the advertiser to push the enquiry into good business. Wileman's Brazilian Review numbers amongst its readers every coffee, banking, export and import house of any standing in three continents. It is rare for an advertisement to be withdrawn. The inference is obvious.

Note.—Rio quotations per 15 kilos, Santos per 10 kilos, and New York per lb.

The Markets. Both Rio and Santos markets show very little change. Shipments other than for Government account are by no means heavy to the U.S. or Europe.

The Rio market closed on Saturday steady, with demand on the decline and buyers attempting to push prices down, but sellers holding their own. Compared with the previous Saturday, there was an all round decline, of 100 reis or 0.5 per cent in 7s and 150 reis or 0.8 per cent in March options.

The Santos market closed likewise steady, with 4s quoted unaltered at 17$000 per 10 kilos, but decline of 200 reis or 1.2 per cent in March options and 125 reis or 0.7 per cent in May.

Speculation has taken a back seat, hence the markets are featureless and buyers taking from hand to mouth.

Valorisation is also taking a rest, for prices are well above Government limits and can be left to look after themselves. With regard to permanent valorisation, the intentions of the Government are somewhat obscure and it would make little difference should the scheme be abandoned altogether, for the position of coffee is promising enough to do away with official interference. The only danger that looms ahead is the disposal of valorisation stocks. So long as this coffee can be held or judiciously disposed of, there is no great danger of a collapse of prices.

Circular of Duuring & Zoon, 4 January, 1922:—At the commencement of the month under review, the market may be described as dull and apathetic. The screwing up of values in Brazil and, on the other hand, the unfavourable economic conditions on the Continent caused trade to hold off. A better spirit has, however, since been observable, but the unforeseen fluctuations caused by local speculation in Santos lead to cautiousness. Santos is quoted spot at 38½cts and Robusta 29-31cts. Robusta futures closed 28 1-8cts March, and May. Arrivals have been of some importance, not so deliveries, leaving our stock at 380,800 bags. Afloat, Dutch East Indies to Holland 38,600 bags and Brazil to Holland 64,000 bags.

PERNAMBUCO MARKET REPORT.

Pernambuco, 21 January, 1922.

Sugar. The sugar market throughout the week has been very steady, with, if anything, an upward tendency. Exporters complain that prices quoted here are beyond those quoted abroad, which is always the case in this market whenever there is a slight upward tendency, and prices have been forced by the non-delivery of the mills to buyers. Sugar here has been going out as fast as it has been coming in and stocks of the finer types are insignificant. The Caixa scheme is daily more antipathetic to the majority of planters, dealers and growers here and it is difficult to say what the outcome will be if the law is sanctioned by the President.

Quotations (nominal) for unbagged are:—Usinas, firsts, 7$500 to 8$; ditto, 2nds, 5$600 to 5$800; crystals, 5$700 to 5$900; whites, 5$600 to 5$900; somenos, 4$600 to 4$900; bruto secco, 2$700 to 3$100; demerara, bruto mellado and retames, not quoted.

Entries from 11 to 17 Jan. were 109,999 bags and shipments from 9th to 15th were: Manaus 2,690 bags, Para 3,180 bags, Maranhão 350 bags, Ceara 590 bags, Areia Branca 105 bags, Natal 72 bags, Santarem 75 bags, Rio 1,500 bags, Antonina 2,200 bags, Rio Grande do Sul 2,146 bags, Pelotas 4,026 bags, Porto Alegre 8,007 bags, Paranagua 500 bags, Madeira 2,502 bags, Leixões 23 bags, Montevideo 7,500 bags, sundry 285 bags.

Cotton has weakened off, owing to no demand either locally or from the south. Prices opened at 35$ for firsts and 29$ for mediums, but have now dropped to 33$ and 27$ respectively. Sellers have some 3,000 to 4,000 bales on hand which they would be willing to sell at 34$, a price buyers refuse to look at, the best offer being 33$. With regard to Sirido, business is quite dead. Entries amounted to 4,007 btles and the only shipment was 625 pressed bales to Santos.

Coffee market easier, prices ranging from 16$500 to 17$, according to type. Small sales have been done during the week. Entries, 3,356 bags and shipments: Manaus 1,490 bags, Part 740 bags, Maranhão 180 bags, Ceara 100 bags, Fernando Noronha 12 bags, Aracaty 80 bags, Santos 2 bags, Rio Grande do Sul 40 bags.

Cereals. Maize has weakened off, prices ranging from 10$500 to 11$, some 2,000 bags being sold at these prices. Entries were 3,365 bags and shipments, Rio 1,800 bags and Fer. Noronha 74 bags. Beans have remained about the same at 30$ to 35$ for new, but business small; entries, 258 bags; shipments, Rio 1,761 bags and Penedo 1 bag. Farinha has ruled firmer, with prices ranging from 7$500 to 8$, but little doing; entries, 367 bags and one shipment of 10 bags to Fernando Noronha.

Weather continues very hot, with occasional showers. Heavy rains are reported up-country.

Freights unchanged, with very little movement to any port.

Exchange has been continually downward, falling away from 7 1-4d to 7 3-16d. Little or no business has been done and the fiscalisation of banks is handicapping even legitimate business. A little private paper appeared for coffee, principally dollar and some sterling bills for cotton; nothing in sugar.

RIO DE JANEIROCOAL

... Production of Coal in the U.K. is assuming pre-war proportions and for the week ended 17 December last amounted to 5,026,800 tons. This is the highest figure for the year and accounts to some extent to the ability of British exporters to compete successfully with U.S. coal. It should be remembered that even with this output many British mines are only working three days per week and the poorer grade mines are closed down altogether.

SHIPPING

The Freight Market continues featureless and beyond large coffee shipments for Government account by the Lloyd Brasileiro boats, there is little cargo moving. Even coffee shipments have fallen below normal and unless new business comes along quickly matters may get worse. The Conference Lines hope to firm their present rate of forty cents to New York and New Orleans and shortly raise it ten or twenty cents per bag, but as there are interests almost as powerful as they themselves outside the Conference, the way is by no means smooth. In fact until the Lamport and Holt and Lloyd Brasileiro are roped into the Conference, the decisions of that body do not carry much weight so far as rate to the U.S. are concerned. To Europe the rate fixed is 40s, with a like ambition to push it up shortly—perhaps when cargo appears.

Outports are improving, particularly Rio Grande and Bahia, the latter port offering cocoa in particular for New York and occasional parcels of sugar for the Plate. Pernambuco gets enquiries for sugar, but does not seem able to agree as to price.

The Plate market keeps steady to firm, with rates more or less stationary; such a condition must be excellent for grain exporters, who can thus book ahead a few weeks with an easy conscience.

The rate for coal from U.K. to Brazil is 13s and 13s 6d to the Plate and from U.S. to Brazil 3 to 4 dollars. With present rates of exchange rates are in favour of U.K.

—The effects of the increased tax on coal are already apparent in the number of steamers bunkered and it is possible that the major portion of one bunkering firm's contracts will be transferred to their Montevideo branch.

—Entries of vessels under the British flag at the River Plate, says the "Review of the River Plate," during the year 1921 amounted to 684 steamers of 2,411,559 tons and 3 sailing craft of 4,550 tons. The falling off in the arrivals of British tonnage as compared with 1920 simply reflects the heavy slump in the movement of vessels of all flags. The British tonnage figures shown above are, in spite of the general depression, ahead of the corresponding totals for 1919, in which we reported arrivals consisting of 623 steamers, making a total of 2,092,331 tons and 36 sailers aggregating 33,465 tons. These British arrivals in 1920 were 972 steamers measuring 3,160,843 tons and 15 sailers measuring 19,552 tons.

Shipping Losses. The statistical summary of vessels totally lost, broken up, condemned, etc., published by "Lloyd's Register," shows that during the first quarter of the present year the gross reduction in the effective mercantile marine of the world amounted to 118 vessels of 146,968 tons, excluding all vessels of less than 100 tons. Of this total 73 vessels of 118,430 tons were steamers and 43 vessels of 28,538 tons were sailing craft. Of same total losses, 18 ships of 17,549 tons were British, 19 ships of 11,163 tons British Dominions, 16 ships of 25,334 tons American and 65 vessels of 93,922 tons other nationalities.
