RIO DE JANEIRO, OCTOBER 15th, 1887

As the legislative session approaches its close, it is impossible to avoid the wish that it might not be continued a short time longer, simply to give time for work of paramount importance brought up at the last moment. The practice of wasting so much time during the early part of the session is a pernicious one, as it compels the hurried consideration of the more important work during the very last moments, As anticipated, another prorogation, dated the 8th inst., has again taken place. It is intended to close the session to-day, the The various budgets have been hurried through, the Chamber accepting the Senate amendments without much consideration. The 18,000,000$ extraordinary credit for Rio Grande and Bahia railways has also been voted, though the necessity has not been publicly explained and the money required must be borrowed. It is generally understood, however, that the motive is principally due to a feeling that the southern frontier must be brought into quicker communication with the seaboard. The rapid completion of the Argentine railways across Entre Rios practically places the Brazilian frontier at the mercy of the Argentines, and it is possible that the government is awakening to that fact. Unless recent history is reversed, however, the credit will do very little toward accomplishing the object in view, for inertia and extravagance will, as usual, cause the failure of the whole scheme unless further grants can be obtained. Aside from some interesting discussions there has been very little accomplished in the two houses beyond the voting of the general and department budgets. Senator Taunay has again presented his compulsory naturalization scheme, and Deputy Nabuco has unsuccessfully tried to draw the government on the question of the Emperor's health. The criticisms on the financial policy of the government have been fruitless, for the ministry appears to have resolved to pay no attention whatever to them. All things considered, the adjournment announced for the 15th will be welcome news to the country.

THE compulsory naturalization bill which Senator Taunay presented to the Senate on the 10th inst. requires but very few words of comment. The same gentleman presented a similar bill in the Chamber in the last session, and it must be believed, there fore, that he is sincerely and honestly convinced that such a law is desirable and will be beneficial. The practical result, in our opinion, will be the very reverse. Should the bill become law as it now stands. every foreigner residing in this countryexcept those in official service, those registering themselves at their consulates or at the municipal council with a declaration that they do not desire Brazilian citizenship, and criminal refugees-will be considered a Brazilian citizen after the lapse of three years. Two years, however, will be sufficient for those who marry Brazilian women, or serve in the army and navy, or establish some industry, or acquire real estate to the value of 1,000$, or manage some industrial, railway or agricultural enterprise, or settle on the frontiers, or hold a professorship in in some educational institution, or publish some literary or scientific work. The first effect of such a law as this will be to so cheapen Brazilian citizenship as to make it even more undesirable than it is now. Senator Taunay has studied human nature to very little purpose if he does not know that such a compulsory measure will be stubbornly resisted. No one likes to be forced into a new relationship. There are many thousands of foreigners residing in this country who would willingly naturalize themselves if Brazilian citizenship were worth anything, but the moment an effort is made to compel them into this they will resist to the last. Should this bill become law, the consulates will be crowded with foreigners desiring to register their unwillingness to assume the empty honor of Brazilian citizenship. The spectacle will not be a flattering one to Brazil, but who will be to blame? We are not without sympathy for Senator Taunay's purpose to infuse a larger foreign element into Brazilian affairs, and to induce the large number of foreigners resident here to take a personal interest in the government of Brazil. The country would unquestionably gain largely from such an accession. But the manne of effecting this is clearly wrong. If Senator Taunay wishes us to become Brazilian citizens, let him make Brazilian citizenship desirable. And how can such a citizenship be desirable under such an electoral law as that of 1881, which limited suffrage throughout the whole empire to less than 150,000or about 1 voter to each 80 inhabitants The great mass of us would acquire the privileges of being drawn for the jury and being drafted or impressed for the armynothing more. Then, too, as long as there is an established Roman Catholic church, and oaths are required from officials for its defence and protection, how can any conscientious Protestant have anything to do with political affairs? In education, also, the church is omnipotent, and Protestant influences are therefore shut out altogether in the public schools and barely tolerated in private schools. Every intelligent foreigner also knows that as long as all political power is centralized here in the imperial capital, his influence elsewhere will be absolutely worthless. If a large German element in Rio Grande do Sul has never been able to get the government to legalize a large number of marriages irregularly effected by a certain public official, what benefits and influence can any class of naturalized foreigners hope to secure? If Senator Taunay will have these matters reformed and make Brazilian citizenship really desirable, he will need no compulsory naturalization law, nor will he run the risk of seeing well-intentioned offers spurned, as they certainly will be.

We regret the necessity of again calling the attention of the director-general of the postoffice to the unsatisfactory state of affairs in the public department under his control. It is not an agreeable occupation to be thus complaining of inefficiency and negli-as this is the only recourse at our disposal, and as no reform is likely to ensue without it, the complaint must be made. In the first place, the delays in the distribution of mails are becoming intolerable. The mails of this office are never distributed under four to six hours after their arrival in the postoffice, and the last American mail took over 24 hours. We did not receive a letter until the mails had been in the postoffice about five hours and not a paper until the next day. During that time fully one half the employés of the office were absolutely doing nothing. This, we submit, is altogether wrong. There is not a mail received at this port which ought not to be handled in two hours, and yet from five to 24 hours are actually taken. These delays are not only vexatious, but they not infrequently cause considerable loss and inconvenience to business men, which it is the manifest duty of the postoffice to prevent if possible, Then, in the second place, the carelessness and negligence of these public employés are causing a great many complaints. The other day a prominent firm of this city received an important letter which had been in the office many days, as shown by the date stamps on the envelope. A complaint was made of the delay, but no attention whatever was given to it. From this it would appear that the man who pays all the postage required on his corres-pondence and all the box rents levied, still has no right to exact prompt and efficient service. An admirable illustration of the negligence sometimes shown occurred some days since at Santos, where a letter addressed plainly for Rio de Janeiro, and marked in the corner for the German steamer "Campinas," was actually sent to Campinas, São Paulo. There is no possible excuse for work of this character. We are sometimes told that the postoffice employés are badly paid, and that they really do the best they can. But, if badly paid, then let them be better paid! In a short time they will be running about the city after Christmas presents, and we shall again hear of poor salaries and hard work, but how can one be expected to give who has been so badly treated during the year? And what are we to think of a government which pays its servants so poorly that this is used to excuse begging and inefficient work? It is full time that radical changes were made in the postoffice of this city, and we shall hope to see the director take the matter in hand at once.

THE balance sheets of the banks on the 30th ulto, show that the minister of finance has again confessed to being mistaken on the volume of currency problem, and also that he has considerably increased the floating debt. His mistake as to the currency shown by the existence of a loan to the Bank of Brazil; and as the Treasury has no available funds to loan, the debt of the bank must be for currency advanced. The increase in the floating debt is the appearance among the assets of the Banco Internacional of an account with a balance to the debit of the Treasury. The amounts are not large, to be sure, but how the minister can persist in his opinion that our currency is excessive when he has to assist the Bank of Brazil to the extent of 8,000,000$, and finds it necessary, or convenient, to appear as a debtor for some 5,000,000$ to this and the Banco Internacional, requires some planation. If it be the intention of Minister Belisario to constitute the Treasury a bank of issue, where, at a moment of necessity, the banks may receive assistance upon the deposit of satisfactory securities, it is no more than equitable that this facility should be extended to individuals. If a capitalist holds government stock why should he be funds they borrow from the Treasury upon the deposit of securities of a character similar to those he holds? If the Treasury will receive deposits from the general public, then it should extend all banking facilities to the public. As to this there can be no divergent opinions. The very clause in the budget law providing for an issue of currency under circumstances of pressure is a recognition of the fact that the banks are hampered by the necessities of the Treasury and may impose conditions upon it as to issues of currency. They will claim that, as they are called upon to advance funds, to them belongs any profit derivable from the public through higher rates of interest, and to them alone should be extended the right, upon depositing satisfactory securities, of raising money at the Treasury. This is clearly and incontrovertibly wrong. It offers a premium to the banks to loan funds to the Treasury in preference to commerce, and by keeping the money market in a chronic state of stringency, affects trade injuriously while it artificially maintains exchange rates. If the Treasury can call to itself the balances of the banks under an arrangement to grant facilities, should a crisis ensue, there is no limit to the financial authorities and the inner circle "rigging" the exchange market. An importer may be made to pay rates of discount that are ruinous, simple because he requires to remit. Now, how can such a system be considered worthy a financial luminary such ao Sr. Belisario? Or as a factor in the management of the empire? It rather resembles the tactics of stock speculators who combine to lock up money that weaker opponents may be forced to realize investments for the benefit of th more powerful. Such action would ce raise a cyclone in England, or the United States. It may be confidently charged that with every assistance lent him the minister of finance has not been successful in the management of his department, and that we are rapidly drifting towards another appeal to the public, either here or abroad, for another loan. The last London loan is nearly two years old now and we have no doubt a new application would be well received. Five per cent, payable by a government that has so far never defaulted, looks enticing to investors abroad, and the Treasury should this time apply for such a sum as will avoid an application to London for at least four or five years, if the necessities of the country can be estimated for so extended a period. His actual requirements may be closely estimated, but if more credits for railway extensions, for miscalculations in interest charges, etc., are to be counted upon, then the sum required by the minister must be estimated with a certain liberality that may even stagger the warmest admirers of and believers in the "future of Brazil."

Once a year at least it becomes necessary to call the attention of the authorities to the filthy, unsanitary condition of the city and to urge that something be done to ward off the regularly-recurring epidemics of the hot season. We do not wish to be understood as saying that the city gets filthy only once a year, for that is really its chronic condition; but with the approach of hot weather, this state of affairs becomes dangerous enough to excite attention and protest. Usually, we regret to say, these protests and appeals are absolutely fruitless, for nothing is done until it is too late. It would not appear from the appearance of the few principal thoroughfares that the city is really in a bad sanitary condition, but if the beever will make a trip through the back streets and slums, where epidimics gence on the part of public employés, but obliged to pay the banks a profit on the lodgment, he will certainly find abundant cause for complaint. Sweeping the Ouvidor is a very poor way to put this city in a proper sanitary condition, and is about as effectual in warding off fever and cholera as whitewashing the flagstaff on Castle hill. We are now half way through October and the hot season is near at hand. If better distributed, the city has an abundance of water, so that no fears need be entertained on that account. The authorities, however, should see that all broken pavements are properly repaired, especially where stagnant water is to be found, and all back streets and alleys are carefully cleaned. The courts of all tenement houses, where so much rubbish accumulates, should also be cleaned out, all nuisances removed, and a thorough sanitary inspection be made of all private and public buildings. There is still plenty of cholera in Europe, and the danger of infection has not yet passed. It it should give us a visit-and with the present laxity as to immigrant arrivals nothing is more likely to happen-we shall certainly suffer most severely. So, too, with yellow fever! There is, happily, some reason for believing that Rio de Janeiro is steadily getting rid of this unwelcome guest, and that it will soon be so effectually under control that nothing but gross negligence will give it a fresh foothold. To make this doubly sure, every care should be taken to keep the city in the best sanitary condition possible. We do not wish to figure as carpers in such matters, but a thorough belief in the value of preventive measures at all times leads us to speak in good time

LEGISLATIVE NOTES.

October 4.—In the Senate the appointment of a clerk in the secretariat was again under discussion and decided against Senator Ignacio Martins' motion yesterday. The finance estimates (receipts) as amended passed second discussion. Senators Teixeira Jr. and Silveira Martins proposed further amendments to the agriculture estimates; the one tending to limit the staff of the department and the other opposing the extension of the contract with the Hamburg immigration society. Further amendments were also proposed to the estimates of the department of fuance (expenses), but no vote was taken for lack of a quorum. In the Chamber there was no session.

October 5.—In the Senate Sr. Silveira Martins presented the project of a law for establishing religious liberty in the empire, and Sr. Godoy one for the constitution of a new province formed of portions of Minas Geraes and S. Paulo. The estimates of the department of agriculture as amended finally passed. In the Chumber Depaty Nabuco took the oaths and his seat as representative of the 1st district of Pernambuco. The bill from the Senate providing for steam navigation on the Araguaya, Tocantins and Vermelho rivers finally passed. A bill providing for obligatory vaccination caused some discussion, during which one of the clauses—presentation of a certificate of vaccination by persons about to be married—was combatted by a deputy in orders as irreligious.

October 6.—In the Senate the estimates of the department of finance (expenses) finally passed, as amended. Senator Franco de Sá desired explanations from the government as to the economical and strategic reasons for the credit for railway extensions, and complained of favoritism shown the southern provinces. He also compared the policy of Sr. Prado, ex-minister, with that of the present minister of agriculture. Barão de Cotegipe, the premier, replied that the credit was absolutely necessary, and were it proper to make a question of confidence in the Senate, he would declare the question vital to the government. Senators Silveira da Motta opposed the credit, and Silveira Martins spoke in lavor of it on strategic grounds. Senator Candido de Oliveira made some remarks and presented two amendments to the finance budget. The committee reported various amendments affecting the tariff. In the Chamber there was no session

October 7.—In the Senate there was no session. In the Chamber Deputy Nabuco made a spirited attack on the government and called upon them to resign; an invitation which is not likely to be accepted. His opposition is to the Senate amendment to the department of war estimates, by which the government is authorized to expend a balance of a credit for armament. Deputy Andrade Figuerra also opposed the amendment. No vote was arrived at.

October &.—In the Senate the bill opening a credit for railway extensions was finally passed. Senator Gomes do Amaral presented an aniendment to the finance budget touching lotteries, which Visconde de Paranaguá seems to oppose. Senator Silveira Martins called the minister of finance's attention to the fact that receipts at the Porto Alegre custom house were falling off, although duties on imports had been increased. Senator Silveira da Motta presented an amendment to do away with all lotteries. In the Chamber Deputy Nabuco asked for a day and hour to be marked when he could ask the premier to give information regarding the Emperor's health. The minister of agriculture made rather a sharp reply, in which he gave it to be understood that the health of His Majesty is satisfactory. Deputies Andrade Figueira and Nabuco referred to the employment of the army as slave hunters.

October 9.—A session was to have been held today (Sunday), but there was no quorum in the Chamber, where urgent business requires attention. The Senate did not propose to assemble. October 10.—A decree dated the 8th was read in Octobes 10.—A decree dated the 8th was read in both Jhouses proroguing the session to the 15th. Senator Tannay asked for certain improvements for the province of Sta. Catharina, favored the construction of the D. Petlo I railway for strategic reasons, but not according to the plans of the English company, and the scheme of canals to be opened. He finally presented a project for a law on naturalization. The bill estimating the general revenue, as amended, finally passed. The trades marks bill with the amendments of the Chamber passed. In the Chamber Deputy Nabuco denied that the opposition was speculating with the state of the Emperor's health, and asked when he could question the premier. The reply was that no day was yet fixed. Various deputies again referred to Senate amendments which led to a lively exchange of remarks between Deputies Andrade Figueira and Araujo Góes. Deputy Nabuco made a long attack on the financial policy of the ministry, to which Deputy Bulhões Carvalho replied in defense of the minister, but in opposition to amendments that increase the expenditure.

October 11.—In the Senate there was no quorum. In the Chamber, after some remarks by Deputies Affonso Celso Jr. and Mattoso Camara the Senate amendments to the general revenue estimates were finally passed.

October 13.—No session in either Chamber. A communication from the premier was read in the Chamber of Deputies to the effect that the proposed interpellation of Deput Nabuco as to the condition of the Emperor's health was inconvenient.

October 13.—No session in either Senate, or —On the 12th, Premier Cotegipe sent a note to the Chamber advising the same that a response to Deputy Nabreo's interpellation on the Emperor's health would be inconvenient. The question is therefore "bottled" and the premier keeps safely out of the way. It may be effective, but the ministry will not gain much credit from it. Nor will any one be better convinced that the state of His Majesty's health inspires no fears.

—After visiting several plantations where immigrants have been established, Mr. d'Atri, the Italian journalist, finds that on some the dwellings are not large and good enough, and that on others the discipline maintained is too much of a military character. He now sees a necessity for the intervention of the government between the planter and the colonist.

—A cancelled 100\% note made its appearance in Taulata' the other day with which a poor woman was victinized. It is asserted that the note came from Rio de Janeiro, and the name of the party sending it was given to the police. —When a rich land-owner, who is also a successful railway contractor, presents the president of a railway company with a small plantation, is it not to be expected that the aforesaid contractor stands a good chance for the very first fat contract? And may not such presents explain partially how it is that a railway president gets rich so fast? These are hypotheses worth thinking about.

For the first half of 1886 and 1887 the traffic receipts of the S. Paulo and Rio railway are stated

	receipts	expenses
1886 1887	547,779$820 666,154_970	531.692$20

—Coffee cultivation is said to be extending and old plantations are being cleaned up in the province of Pernambuco. It is expected that some coffee will be exported in 1888.

—On August 26th a private cable dispatch was received in New York stating that the growing crop had been seriously damaged. New York will get a fine idea of Rio truthfulness after a while.

—The Diario de Santos gives the September receipts of coffee at Santos as 101,530 bags, and the clearances $1,050 bags, including 231 coastwise. This makes the receipts since 1st July 238,600 bags and the exports 235,043 bags, or about half the quantities of the same period of last year.

—In Java, a planter has been experimenting with grafting Arabian coffee on the Liberian variety. the outset, the experiments proved successful save in one respect. The gentleman in question ecure plants proof against leaf disease but found himself disappointed. The grafts grew very well on the Liberian stocks. But leaf diseas did not spare them. Soon, they were as severely stricken as the ordinary coffee trees.—The Java Government coffee crop this year is estimat under half a million of piculs. The yield is expect to fall below four hundred thousand piculs. Private estates, too, show the same shortcoming. All over the island the coffee crop has proved short on private estates as well. On the west coast o Sumatra the amount of available coffee has turned out so miserably small that it is intended to make up for the deficiency by ckeing out the stock in hand with Preanger coffee, which has beans large enough to admit of passing muster for Sumatra These signs of the times betoken evidently that Government coffee cultivation has seen its best days in Java and Sumatra.—Straits Times.

LOCAL NOTES

- —A French gentleman has received a decoration for having introduced matte to the Parisians.
- —We have omitted to state that "hello" is telephone American for "halloo." We trust that the combination is now complete.
- —Another branch of national industry will shortly be inaugurated. A shot-tower is the latest touch; and lead will be imported.
- —The breakfast offered by the French admiral to the Princess Regent proved a success. The admiral is to be decorated.
- —Lt. Col. Santo Antonio duly drew his quarterly pay, 240$, on the 1st inst. Brother John of the Divine Love Costa is the colonel's attorney.
- —At last the Flora Brasiliensis has flowered. The editor is to receive a decoration, and not inappropriately it will be of the Order of the Rose.
- -Four sneak thieves absolutely had the impudence to enter the police barracks here on the 6th to steal fowls; they were discovered and cantured.
- —Deputy Pereira da Silva, the perennial candidate for the Senate from Rio de Janeiro, appears to have thrown up the sponge. He is going to Europe.
- —The police arrested a man here the other day for bathing without any clothes. His defense was that he lived in Nietheroy, where such conduct is not considered improper.
- —The Columbian government has granted permission to the Central and South American Telegraph Co. to lay a cable from Colon along the northern coast of that country.
- —The bill providing for steam navigation on the Araguaya and other rivers has been passed, and it now remains to be seen what the holders of the Cayapó concession are going to do.
- —The Gazeta de Noticias tell afoul of the municipal chamber about the never to be decided market question. A municipal councillor replied and appears to have but a poor opinion of the Gazeta.
- —A passenger on a train from one of the suburbs recently had the patience to count the dogs seen during his trip. They numbered 117. The moral effect of Sr. Portella's statistical society seems to have commenced.
- —Will our diffetanti be able to console themselves for the non-appearance of Ferrari, by the arrival of Naghel? We do not know who Naghel is, but the local press says his Italian lyric troupe arrived here on the toth.
- —A gentleman of this city was so delighted at the return of his son-in-law, that he recently freed two slaves. Something like joy, that! We are still waiting to record a similar outburst of joy for the return of a mother-in-law.

- -With Zola's "Earth" and Azevedo's "Man," we seem to be getting down to genuine dirt.
- —A skating rink is to be again tried here, and under conditions which it is hoped will render the undertaking successful.
- —It is reported from Montevideo that the negotiations between Brazil and the Platine republics for a sanitary convention are proceeding satisfactorily.
- —A box containing thermometers was stolen from the custom house on the 6th, whereupon the administrator of the discharging section fined each laborer 500 rs. It may not have been strict justice, but it does seem like common sense.
- —The government has approved the municipal ordinance requiring train companies to use life preservers on all their cars. The inventor, or manufacturer, of the special apparatus is now happy, and the aldermen—are satisfied.
- —The Jornal having made it very warm for the telephone company, the manager dismissed two of the girls employed by him who are relatives of one of the staff of the Jornal. If this is not the quintessence of meanness, we give it up.
- —We suggest to bashful wooers an entirely unique and proved to be efficacious means of "popping the question," Says he: "2 John, v. 5." She replies: "Ruth 2, v. to" His answer is "3 John, v. 13;" and the parson is called in.
- —It would be of interest to know which is right. The Yorand says the coral bank found by Barão de Teffé is 15 miles from the Abrolhos light; the Dario Official makes the distance 13. The difference is sufficient to interest marine underwriters.
- —Some fishermen caught off our harbor recently what appears to have been a species of mock-turtle. The National Museum bought it and will preserve the skeleton, after the staff have been regaled on soup, of course. The geological department does not think much of the find, because it is postdiluvian.
- —A ridiculous formality in Rio is the examination by the police of tram drivers. That carriage and cab drivers be examined can be understood, for they must know the geography of our narrow streets and which are "ups" and which "downs;" but to examine a tram driver whose duty consists in putting down or raising the brake, is the very height of absardity.
- —Seven months ago some of our gilded youth, who "had the san in their eyes," assaulted an unfortunate young man. A judge of one of the criminal courts has finally decided to investigate the mental condition of the victim. Is there no order of "the leather medal" that might be granted this excessively energetic judge?
- —One of the police delegates has been extremely happy in inducing gentlemen who run away with ladies, to enter the ties of matrimony. A local colleague recently notices that when one of the Romeos showed a dismelination to meet the crisis, the delegate found a husband for the abandoned Juliet among the staff of his office.
- —Why in the name of common sense and charity can not this blessed society that calls itself "Amante da Instrucção" do something for the miscrable beggar children that absolutely infest our streets? They are not Brazilians to be sure, but they are no less worthy of some protection. Sr. White might organize a concert for the furnishing of a fund for these wretched waifs.
- —A criminal has just been submitted to his third trial by the jury here. In April, 1885, he was convicted and sentenced to 7½ years imprisonment; in December, 1886, he was sentenced to 12 years; and this month his sentence is to two years banishment from the legal district! His crime was disgusting, but the jury seem to have seen some reason for extenuation, and perhaps another appeal would result in a decision that he did not commit the crime at all.
- —Quite a famous individual arrived here, in custody, on the 7th. He was indicted under Art. 203 of the criminal code here in 1877 [we do not know what the particular crime was], then in a Minas town he is wanted for a scrious assault, and yet again in the province of Espirto Santo for bigamy and homicide. If the gentleman is not satisfied with so prominent a position, he ought to be given a public office where he can add defalcation to his other crimes.
- —Sr. Jacome, a well-known expert in hippic matters, appears to have collected some startling figures as to races here which are well worthy of the attention of every one. In 1886 there were 63 races, the pools on which amounted to 5,496,1308. The amount distributed among backers was 4,946,5178, leaving a nett profit to the clubs of 549,6138. The gross profits to the clubs of 549,6138. The gross profits to the clubs, excluding gate money and stands, reached 665,5008, of which 372,5688 were divided among owners of winners, leaving a nett profit of 292,9328 to the

- —Notwithstanding the season and recent rains there are complaints of scarcity of water from various parts of the city.
- -Lieut. Costa Rubim, who lost the Pirapama on the coast of Maranhão, has been condemned to suspension from service for two years.
- -Paris sticks a scarf pin in its sailor cravat. Rio follows suit. When the cravat is not clean and the pin is imitation, the combination is not happy.
- —It is pleasing to know that an exchange of compliments has taken place between the French admiral and Barão de Teffé in regard to the Abrolhos reef.
- —The discovery of scandalous irregularities in Paris in the way of selling decorations should enhance the value of the Brazilian article, which, as every one knows, is Simon-pure.
- —We are sorry to see that the scheme for organizing a bank to control the monoply of alcohol in Germany has fallen through. We thought of trying for a directorship.
- —God bless the lawyers! They seem to have discovered that there are no slaves in Brazil, but seem disinclined to advise the prosecution of such fellow citizens as reduce free men to slavery.
- -The new electric company called the "Companhia Força e Luz," was formally organized or the 10th inst. Its principal object will be the supply of electric light for private consumption.
- —The government has chosen Sr. Pedro Dias Gordilho Paes Leme, president of the Instituto Flaminense de Agricultura, as a member of the imperial commission to attend the forthcoming congress of sugar producers in London.
- —Mr. A. de Courcy Daunt, late of the English Bank, has been appointed assistant manager in the Rio office of the New York Life Insurance Co., 31 Hospicio, and has just entered upon the discharge of his new duties.
- —Among the arrivals here on the 8th by the American packet Alliança were Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Williams, of Maryland. Mr. Williams is to occupy the post of secretary of the United States legation at this Court.
- —There are few things make a man regret his sex. But on one of these broiling days, the sight of ladies in light dresses, consisting mostly of gauze and lace, makes a man wish he could avail of the Paris fashions.
- —What is the matter with the matrimonial laws here anyhow? There are rumors of a young lady carried off and deposited [and a precious deposit too] with a daily colleague, but none of the soi dizant newspapers mention the row. It is certainly no secret.
- —The September gas bill of the city amounted to 48,874$8to, including 4,241$960 differences in exchange. There were 6,568 lamps [burners] in operation, which consummed 212,537 cubic metres of gas. The globe-gas bill for the suburbs amounted to 17,984$099.
- —The Havas Agency having quite overlooked the matter, probably as unimportant, we would advise our readers that the recent contest for the America cup at New York resulted in a victory for the American yacht Voluntee. The British yatch Thistle was beaten in the first two races,
- —It was announced on the 13th that the Princess Regent will transfer her residence to the Palacio Isabel, Larangeiras, on the 16th inst., for the purpose of taking sea baths until the end of November. It is expected that the Court will be removed to Petropolis early in December.
- —According to the daily Misericordia reports the total number of deaths last month was 1,605, or a daily average of 53.5 a day. This is equivalent to an annual average of 55 per thousand. The deaths from consumption were 134, yellow fever 2, diphtheria 19, beri-ber 12 and small-pox 631. The August deaths from small-pox were 695, from which it appears that the decrease was not very marked. Since January 1st the deaths from small-pox in this city up to September 30th numbered 2,626.
- —A few days ago the commander of the Riachnelo discovered that the Ilha Raza electric light was performing in a very irregular and spasmodic manner. An inquiry has been made which has resulted in the discovery that the metalic cord suspending the weight which turns the apparatus has not been acting properly and that hand labor has been required. When, therefore, the light-keeper wanted to roll a fresh cigarette an irregularity necessarily resulted.
- The Jornal of the 11th inst. publishes an interesting table of lottery returns [Pará only not sending returns] by which it appears that the aggregate capital of last year's lotteries was 18,277,000$, and the premiums distributed 13,777,808$, leaving a balance of 4,499,102$ for berty, 808$, commissions, etc. This last sum represents the direct loss to the country. Of this 1,442,851$ comprised the benefits, 627,668$ went for the state for taxes, stamps, etc., 164,976$ to the provinces, and the rest, or over half, to lottery officials and brokers.

- —The Emperor and Empress have returned to Paris, and on the 11th His Majesty attended a meeting of the academy of sciences, where a paper was read on the fertility and climatology of Brazil, The Havas people, however, forgot to tell us who read the paper.
- -In 1883 two men were arrested in this city for assault and battery. They were not prosecuted, however, and the depositions in the case mysteriously disappeared. Recently the police and promater public have resolved to prosecute the parties, and have begun to take testimony. Justice certainly does seen a little slow.
- —Old Muley-Hassan seems to have been playing a very undignified trick on the timorous sovereigns of Europe. He starts out for another and, we hope, better world, and then when all Europe is in thorough agitation over the expected event and his ports are full of watchful war vessels, he suddenly rallies and postpones his departure. The allied fleets of Europe may now return.
- —It would be interesting to know what these fellows with tin boxes on their heads have for sale. There is not a dog fight, a fit, or a tram accident to collect a crowd, that among the interested spectators there are not one or two men with tin boxes on their heads. We have heard that dinners are carried around Rio in this way, but the customers must have very irregular dinner hours.
- —There was a considerable strike at Finnie Kemp & Co.'s graving dock on the 12th, which led to considerable disorder. The men employed on the repairs of two steamers left off work, and then tried to prevent men from other shops taking their places. The strikers were very belligerent and threatened future disturbance. On the following day they were promised their pay at the end of the week, and they then withdrew peaceably.

A Illustração; Vol. IV, No. tó. Contains an engraved portrait of the Emperor D. Pedro II on the title page, and portraits of the Empress and Prince D. Pedro.

Projucna Propriedade e Immigração Europea; by Louis Couty. Rio de Janeiro: Imprensa Nacional, 1887. This little work constitutes No IV in the "Livros da propaganda" of the Sociedade Central de Immigração and is made up from sundry papers left by the late Louis Couty. It also contains various papers and speeches of the president of the society, Senator Alfredo d'Escragnolle Taunay, which fill considerably over one half the book. The ideas advanced by Couty are partially based on actual observation, out of which grew his final belief in the superiority of free labor over the slave. The reasoning, however, is more abstract and extended than the question really demands. What experience has fully and finally demonstrated needs no elaborate reasoning. As we have so frequently urged, however, all this is much in advance of the more urgent problem—the status of the European immigrant and free laborer in Brazil.

O Homem; by Aluizio Azevedo. Rio de Janeiro: Adolpho de Castro Silva & Co., 1887. It may be assumed that the safest rule to follow in literature s to write just what may be discussed in a draw ing room in the presence of ladies and children. The school of "naturalists," of which Zola likes to figure as the father and the author of this book as a sciple, desires to have it understood, however, that subjects forbidden in polite, refined society may yet be introduced into the pages of books for public circulation and defended on the grounds of their being true to nature. Truth to nature does not require that everything in nature should be made require mat everything in mature should be made the subject of general discussion. The physician may not discuss in the drawing room all that he hears in the lecture room and all that he experiences in actual practice; nor may the lawyer return to his own fireside and relate all the disgusting details of some criminal case in which he has taken a pro-fessional interest. Yet these "naturalists" would have us believe that the sins, intrigues and diseases have us believe that the sias, intrigues and diseases of life are the proper subjects for novels! The author very imperimenty advises us, at the outset, not to read his book if we do not love "furth in art; and have not clear and secure ideas in respect to "naturalism." We must decline to permit Sr. Azerodo to define for us what truth in art really is, and what ideas we must shold. We have, however, some very velear and secure ideas" on "naturalism," which are to the effect that it is an unseemly mascome very velear and secure ideas" on "naturalism," which are to the other that it is an unseemly mascome very velear and secure ideas" on "naturalism," which are to the other that it is an unseemly mascoperating of all the folibles and sins of mankind before the world under the banner of "truth to nature." Homesty, virtue, fidelity, modesty, purily, reverence, integrity, charity, honor—all these would appear to be mirrae to nature. And yet, we believe that the great majority of men love and guard these attributes of humanity, and would prefer to keep the worst passions of our him love of sight and out of mind. To be "true to artive to over the Zola school considers it the for artive to over the Zola school considers it the for artive to over the Zola school considers it the form is phest duty to force upon us these fauls and failures of poor humanity, out of which we can gain in the better and nobler qualities of our nature. O Monem is a book which careful parents will try to keep out of the hands of their children and which ladies will not read openly. As it is not a lext book, nor a professional treatse, there does not appear to be one single reason why it should have been written. of life are the proper subjects for novels! The
