But their loyalty quickly found an adequate reason, for when they saw the foreign land they contemptuously remarked, "Of course—not good enough." When the ship arrived at Montevideo they found a lot of land which also was not under the Queen's dominion. They could not say it was not good enough, but they summed up the situation by saying, "Then the Queen should come and take it at once."

RIO DE JANEIRO, JULY 27th, 1897.

In some respects the political outlook is at present much more encouraging than it has previously been for a long time. The president of the republic and his advisers, by means of a well conceived plan, skilfully and vigorously executed, have apparently succeeded in averting the immediate dangers that threatened them and in thwarting the plots of those who oppose the wise and threatened them and in thwarting the plots of those who oppose the wise and patriotic policy which the president seems to have definitely adopted.

What is now necessary is not to lose by inaction or by blundering the fruits of the victory thus achieved. This we cannot refrain from saying, since we think that we still perceive traces of the timid and vacillating spirit which at one by inaction or by blundering the fruits of the victory thus achieved. This we cannot refrain from saying, since we think that we still perceive traces of the timid and vacilating spirit which at one time may have been excusable, but which can no longer be justified and, if absolutely latal to the best interests of the country.

Availing himself, then, of the prestige that he has now acquired and of the at least partial relief which he has obtained from the once all-absorbing care of defending himself and maintaining his position, the president should proceed promptly and energetically to promote the improvement of the financial situation. As we have already had occasion to say and as, we think, cannot be too frequently repeated, every item of public expenditure should be carefully examined, every branch of the public service should be investigated, every abuse should be eradicated and every useless expense should be expunged from the budget.

To superfluous public employés a

To superfluous public employés a reasonable time should be allowed for finding other occupations, and then the government should get rid of them in some manner that will conciliate the interests of the treasury with the principles of intries and equitive the principles of intries and equitive. ciples of justice and equity.

The costly and disastrous war in Bahia, which, in our opinion, should never have commenced, ought to be terminated as speedily as possible. Wise and conciliatory measures should be adopted for allaying the discontent of the people of that and other States and for turning to account in bonefit of the for turning to account in benefit of the country the courage and tenacity dis-played by the fanatics in their resistance country the courage and tenacity displayed by the fanatics in their resistance to the government troops.

The army should be reduced to not over 5.000 men, who should be well armed, properly equipped, thoroughly trained and placed under the control of the best disciplinarians in the military service. The military schools should be closed until the present superabundance of officers shall have disappeared. Military men, especially such as neglect their duties for the purpose of meddling in politics, should be encouraged in every legitimate way to seek other callings. The navy, which is the branch of the service on which, in connection with citizen soldiery, Brazil must principally rely for its defence, should be strengthened with a few good vessels and the government should dispose of the unserviceable hulks that are merely a source of expenditure. the unserviceable hulks that are merely a source of expenditure.

Production should be stimulated and capital, labor and enterprise be induced to enter the country by reducing taxes to the lowest possible limit and by removing other burdens and clogs by which industry is hampered.

which industry is hampered.

If the legislative and executive branches of the government will sincerely adopt and earnestly pursue the policy that we have outlined, we believe that we can assure them of the cordial cooperation and support of foreign capitalists. Money, if the information that reaches us is correct, is now abundant both in Europe and in the United States. The outlets for capital seeking investment have been diminishing rather than increasing of late years. The national debt of Great Britain between 1886 and 1896 decreased £85.000.000, and the part of it in private hands no less than £122.000.000. The only other European countries whose funds attract and the part of it in private hands no less than £122,000,000. The only other European countries whose funds attract investors are France. Germany, Austria-Hungary and Russia. The fever for investment in South-African gold mines has been followed by a desire for a safer form of investment of constantly accumulating capital. The natural result of the narrowing of the market is to stimulate the demand for desirable securities. Between December, 1895, and the corresponding month of last year, 3 %, Russian bonds rose from 89 % to 94 % From January to May, in the present year, Hungarian 4 %, bonds rose from 101 ½ % to 104 ¾ % bonds rose from 105 % to 107 ½ % on and others in a similar proportion.

An Indian 2 ½ % loan of £3,500.000

Australia, on loans of £1,000,000 each Australia, on loans of £1.000.000 each, obtained bids varying from £95 to £98 10s. per £100, and Queensland, on the 17th ult., floated a 3 % loan of £1.500.000, on which the bids varied from £95 to £100 10s. 6d. In all of these instansums required were covered several times.

several times.

British consols now yield less than 3 %, and French rentes less than 3 %, and in New York money is so plentiful that last month bankers' balances were freely lent at 1 %.

The above-mentioned facts and others that might be adduced, if it were necessary conclusively demonstrate that conclusively demonstrate that money being abnormally abundant and cheap, the present opportunity is exceptionally favorable for obtaining a loan. But, although investors are auxious to buy anything that promises even a moderate yield, provided the security is good, it is evident that they cannot lend their money to countries whose governments fail to inspire confidence, nor is it desirable, in the interest of the people of such countries, that the governments should be able to borrow money in order that they may squaunder it and thus increase the burdens of the tax-payers. If however, foreign capitalists can be in-duced to believe that a policy of good government and thorough retrenchment will be followed not only by President Pru-dente de Moraes and the present congress, but also by their successors, there is no doubt that Brazil, possessing, as it does, immense natural resources, will not fail to obtain all the money that it requires for its legitimite necessities.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES

LEGISLATIVE NOTES

JULY 19.—Senate.—Senator Vicente Machado accused the government of interfering in political affairs in Paraná and censured it for contracting with Dr. José Hygtino for organizing a digest of the legislation of the country.—Chamber of Deputies.—Deputies Adolpho Gordo and Glycerio made important disclosures from which it appears that in 1894 both Glycerio and President Prudente de Moraes had reason to suspect that Marshal Floriano Peixoto was plotting to prevent the latter from taking office. Glycerio proposed to thwart the plot by causing congress to adjourn and afterwards meet again in time to be in session on the day fixed for the inauguration of the new president. The latter, however, refused to assent to this proposal. But, as congress failed to finish its work in the period fixed by the constitution, it was still sitting on the day of the inauguration.

JULY 20.—Senate.—Senator Vicente Machado again spoke on political affairs in Paraná and censured the government for appointing ex-revolutionists to offices in the national guard. In the course of his remarks he spoke of one of the newly appointed officers in depreciatory terms. (Was that the gentleman, inquired senator Feliciano Penna, awho caused you to leave the State so lastily in 1894. In another part of his speech he referred to murders committed for political motives. «I presume,» said senator Leopoldo de Bulhões, what he honorable senator in each of Paraná would vote for the candidate of their choice. «The honorable senator need not be uneasy,» said senator Severino Vieira; whee election will at least be acfree as it the contraction of the form of Perainics.—Deputy Francisco Alencastro said that, although an officer of the army, he had never concealed his intention of refusing to defend the government of President Prudente de Moraes, if it should be attacked by armed assailants.

JULY 22.—Senate—Senator Almeida Barreto defended the appointments of officers of the national guard in Paraná and referred to the national guard in Paraná it should be attacked by armed assailants.

JULY 22.—Senate—Senator Almeida Barreto defended the appointments of officers of the national guard in Paraná and referred to the immoderate use of tyrannical and abusive measures under the government of Marshal Floriano Peixoto, such as espionage, employment of pressgangs, illegal arrets, murder of prisoners etc. He said that at that tine he was watched by 10 or 12 spies. He moved to ask the government for the documents relating to the trial of Gen. Pego.

JULY 32.—Senator.—Senator Almeida Barreto's motion was adopted.—Ckawher of Deputies.—Deputy Timotheo da Costa censured the use of the pressgang for obtaining recruits for the army. He related several facts showing the abuses that are committed under this illegal system of recruiting.

control was obtained of the R'o de Janeiro Railway, and the Pc'acipe do Grão Pará system. The scheme put forwa d by the commice placed all the honds on the same footing. Having mea-ioned other features of the scheme, he stated that the opinion of himself and of his clients was that the committee was one which rep sentred the subsequent bondholders, and the interests of the six per cent. bondholders were nuterly neglected. The six per cent bonds represented the money out of which the railway was made and the value of the railway itself, whereas the subsequent bonds represented what he might call financial operations, and he and his clients, therefore, thought that the whole of the bonds should not be lauped together. It was, in face, impossible to reconcile the interest of the different classes of bonds, and the committee's scheme was, he added, in the interest of the second and not of the first mortgagees. He proposed that the six per cent, bondholders should form a committee among themselves, and that they should be able to obtain possession of the line, and afterwards to work it. He proposed the formation of a committee which awn they would be sent back stamped to the effect that the holder had approved the action of the committee and the steps taken up to that date. He could assure them that he had done all in his power on the committee to protect the interests of the six per cent, bondholders, and the only desire of the members of the committee was to bring about an arrangement face to all parties—an object which he believed had been accomplished. Coffee.—The past week has been active, and the active sales amount to something over 90 000 bags, and the market has been stackly all along. The those of the proposition and the outsiders bought something at 7 [4].

During the early forenoon there was no change in strength, and, always with some conditions, business was reported in bank sterling at 7 [4]. The sellers at 75, for August delivers, appeared and found no money, the banks hidding this rate for ready quoted at 7 [46-74]; and other sterling at 7 [4].

The days' business was moderate at 7 [46-74], the last an official quotation, for bank, and 1432-75 for other sterling. Nothing was reported in sover able news from Canudos was spoken of but the effect of these on exchange will only be apparent on Monday.

we can learn the banks are not furnishing the expected facilities this year, that might be expected, but the factors are not all crippled, and the planners will probably sooner or later discover the planners will probably sooner or later discover the planners will probably sooner or later discover the planner of the factor of the factor

NECTANDRA AMARA

NECTANDRA AMARA

The discovery of this wonderful product of the Brazilian flora has furnished a powerful and efficiencious remedy not only for sea-sickness, but also for the musear fett in pregnancy and that which results from the motion of the train on railways, as well as for such diseases of the stomach and bowels as require a good tonic, carrimantive, diuretic or regulator for promoting menstruation.

The shoetandra Amara Pills are prepared with all scientific precautions for their perfect preservation and are put up in strong boxes, so that they may be forwarded by post in filling orders from all pares of the world. They are accompanied with printed directions in three languages—Fortuguese, English and Frencis—so that their therapeutic effects and the manner of taking them may be readily understood.
