— Earthquake shocks were felt in southern Chili on the 24th and 25th, causing great alarm. The shocks were violent enough on the second day to cause great damage to buildings. It is reported that the new dock at Talcahuano was injured.

RIVER PLATE ITEMS.

- Telegrams from Montevideo state that Sr. Blanco has withdrawn his resignation as president of the council of state. Alarming reports of an impending revolution still con-tinue to circulate.

- Reports are current that a second con spiracy against Cuestas has been discovered at Montevideo, and several arrests have been made. One report says that preparations are making on the Rio Grande frontier for an armed invasion of Uruguay.

-This is mild sarcasm from the B. Herald.—We beg to inform our correspondent New Chum that his fears of a revolution tak-Acæ Chum that his fears of a revolution taking place in this city shortly are ungrounded. The works around the post office are not barricades or fortifications, but merely where the municipality have been fooling with the pavements, gas-pipes, sewers, and who knows what else besides. We know it is hard to distinguish, but New Chum, when he has been out here a few more years, will learn that a street barricade can be scaled, whilst a street upon which the municipality is at work can only be passed safely by balloon.

-We quote from the Times of Argentina -« Conversing with a member of the committee appointed at the mass meeting of cricketers held last month, we were informed that matters are proceeding favourably in the idea of importing a team of cricketers from England to play various of the clubs and teams here. We were given to understand that a portion of the expense of maintaining the visitors would be defrayed by a subscription amongst well known houses and people who appreciate the movement. We were also informed that a source of revenue would be relied on from gate money, matters having come to an understanding with the authorities, although it is probable that in regard to gate money all matches with such adjunct will have to be played outside of the limits of the Federal Capital, such as Hurlingham, Lomas etc., and According to a well, informed contemps. appointed at the mass meeting of cricketers

- According to a well informed contempo rary, if the rebels had been successful, they would have formed a government as follows:—
Dictator, General Estevan; minister of government, Dr. Miguel Herrera; minister of finance, Alcides Montero; minister of fonent, Dr. Angel Flore Costa; minister of foreign affairs, Dr. F. Acosta y Lara; minister of war, General Casemiro Garcia; chief of staff. General Casemiro Garcia; chief of staff. General Osvaldo Rodriguez; commandant of the port. Col. L. Queirolo; prefect of police, Justo R. Pelayo; minister to Argentina, Eugenio Carzon. We think that there ought to be a Te-Deum in the Cathedral to return thanks for the country being saved from such an utter calamity as such a government would have been—the signal for a sanve qui peut for every honest and decent man in the republic and for the ruin of all its interests. Amongst the whole lot there is not one name worthy of the remotest confidence or even respect.—Monte-rideo Times.

—Two sentences have recently been issued ould have formed a government as follows:

—Two sentences have recently been issued both by the criminal judge Dr. Montaño, which deserve some notice. On July 18, 1807, in the valley of Aignd, dept. of Maldonado, the two men Diego and Juan Fernandez took to the house of the former two sheep which they had stolen from a neighbour. As they were hiding them in a shed, two men came up. The brothers Fernandez, pretending they were seathority, a called on these to halt, and, as they refused to do so, fired upon them with Remington rifles, whereby one of them, a soldier named Escudero, was wounded and killed. Other persons then arrived on the scene, whereupon the two Fernandez fled to the hills, but shortly after voluntarily gave themselves into custody. This act of murder the jury found to be alegitimate self defence, a and accordingly the judge has ordered the release of the prisoners, setting aside the charge of murder entirely and giving the robbery as purged with the imprisonment already suffered. The second case occurred in Cerro Largo, in Nov. 23, 1897. A man named Juan Martinez had a quarrel with a boy of sixteen named Gregorio Viera, and struck him with a broom. Viera thereupon took out a dagger and stabbed Martinez, causing his death, a in a moment of obfuscation as at the verdict says. This deliberate murder the judge has punished with three y years' imprisonment! We leave our readers to form their own comments on those two cases, which form wome cexamples of the want of respect for human life in this republic, and at the manner in which the laws are administered. Whether that country can justly claim to be civilised which has such inadequate punishment for crime, is another question. — Times, Montevideo, July 15. -Two sentences have recently been issued, by the criminal judge Dr. Montaño,

-Of the nine tramway companies in the city of Buenos Aires, two are working electrically, another is constructing its lines for electric traction, and two others are petitioning for leave to change their horse system for electricity. During the past two years thirty applications for concessions for electric tramways have been made to the Buenos Aires municipality.—Review, Buenos Aires.

- The Liga de La Patrioteria, Italian legions phantom war-ships and the decoration Prensa building in the Avenida de Mayo on national festivals is one class of patriotism. There is another class of patriotism that has no brass band, no trophies of flags, no uniforms to parade in, no cocks' feathers, and no special liking for newspaper eulogy. Such is the patriotism that subscribes to internal loans and planks down the dollars instead of elophrases when the country is in need of quent phrases when the country is in need of aid. This week a quiet gentleman, Sr. Eduardo Castex, asked a few wealthy friends to his house one evening, and suggested that all the owners of real estate in the country should contribute five dollars for every thousand of their respective valuations to the government, for one time only, not as a loan, but as a voluntary tax. Sr. Castex a thinks that in this way funds to the amount of $50,000,000 might be raised this year, thus enabling the government to liquidate all its debt incurred for the purpose of organizing the national defence. — Southern Cross, Buenos Aires.

THE INFERNAL MACHINE.

THE INPERIOR MACHINE.

There has recently been shown to us a photograph of the celebrated infernal machine with which in 1893 a disstardly attempt was made on the life of Admired Custodio de Mello, commander of the revolutionary squadren, by persons of the same class of unscrupulous partisuns of military despotism as those who last year attempt ed to take the life of President Prudente de Moraes and murdered Marshal Machado Bittencourt, the minister of war.

It is possible that some of our readers may

It is possible that some of our readers may never have been informed of the particulars of this treacherous and atrocious crime, of which there exists, we understand, an authen-tic record duly signed by witnesses. Such readers will doubtless be interested in the fol-lowing brief account of what occurred:

lowing brief account of what occurred:

At 6 o'clock p. m. on Sept. 24, 1863, there arrived a lighter alongside the ironclad Aquiduban, to whose commander, Capt. Alexandrino de Alencar, the boatman in charge of the lighter-handed a parcel, saying:—

a Please give this to Admiral Custodio de Mello and say to him:—'Ao bom entendedor meia pal avra basta'. [To one who understands readily half a word is sufficient].

meia pal avra basta'. [To one who understands readily half a word is sufficient].

Capt. Alexandrino compiled with the request and, by the Admiral's order, proceeded to remove the paper wrappers from the parcel. Dr. Anfrisio Fialho, well acquainted with the treacherons character of their enemies, expressed his suspicion that the parcel contained an infernal machine and recommended the atmost caution in handling it.

The removal of the wrappers disclosed a copy of the 3rd volume of the consultations of the council of state for the years 1871–75. Extending from the inner part of the volume were two book-marks containing the words of Corsairs and Pirates—Belligerents.

On being examined it was found that the leaves stuck together, and Col. Jacques Ourique suggested that, before an attempt was made to open it, it should be well soaked in water. This advice being followed, the book was readily opened and in a cavity that had been made in centre thereof were 400 grammes of dynamite and an apparatus for exploding a cap intended to set fire to the charge.

The boatman, on being questioned, deposed that about noon on that day an unknown per-mes of dynamite and an apparatus for exploding a cap intended to set fire to the charge.

The boatman, on being questioned, deposed that about noon on that day an unknown person, apparently an officer of the navy, had approached him and asked him whether he was willing to execute a commission on board the 'hjuidaban. The boatman expressed his willingness to go, provided he could obtain a permit. This the man promised to procure from the police authorities, and after making an appointment to meet again they parted.

Between 5 and 6 o'clock p.m. they again met on the wharf and the stranger gave the boatman a parcel, telling him to hand it to the Admiral in person. The boatman remarked that the permit was still wanting and the stranger went away, shortly afterwards returning with the permit. He then repeated his instructions to the boatman, paid him 105 for his services and gave him the message for his services and gave him the message for his boatman, went with his permit to the difficial Customo of Meno.

The boatman went with his permit to the ommander of the guard, who read it, retained and allowed the boatman to proceed on

Convinced of the truth of the man's statements, the Admiral set him at liberty and allowed him to return ashore without molestation

This was only one of many treacherous attempts on the lives of the enemies of Marshal Floriano Peixoto. The notorious Deocleciano Martyr, now a prisoner accused of plotting against the life of President Prudente de Moraes, has recently had the hardihood to make a spontaneous confession of his attempt to use poison against them.

BRAZILIAN RAILWAYS.

In our last issue we dealt with the Brazilian government funding scheme as it affects the holders of that government's direct obligations. As we then pointed out, the guaranteed railway companies are also largely interested in the plan, for the arrangement by which the interest on the public debt of the Republic will be funded for the next three years carries with it also the funding of the large amounts paid by way of guarantee on capital to about a score of railways in Brazilian that be about a score of railways in Brazilian that be about a score of railways in Brazilian bonds, will be seriously affected by the arrangement to pay interest in scrip for three years from July 18 next. Only two Brazilian railways of any consequence are known to the London market which are entirely independent of the guarantee of the Brazilian government, viz., the San Paulo and the Rio Claro Of the rest, numbering about a dozen, few, if any, would have been constructed at all had they merely to depend on the profits they were likely to earn from traffic. But with the regular payment of the government guarantee hitherto, they have been able to meet the interest on the obligations without difficulty, and also, in most instances, to make soud losses in actual working out of the proceeds of the guarantee. The fall in exchange to the record rates recently quoted did not affect them seriously, for the guarantees have been paid in sterling, When the rate of exchange was materially increased the burden of the guarantee which the government has hitherto paid in sterling. Sit.—I see by your last issue that letters were exchanged in London between Messrs, N. M. Rothschild & Sons and President-elect Campos Salles in regard to the recent financial rrangement for funding the interest on the foreign debt. You do not give the letters, and only an extract from Dr. Campos Salles' letter to show that he agreed to the conditions. As these letters are not accessible to many of your readers, especially those living up country, would you kindly have them reproduced in your columns, if convenient? It may be an sold storys for your readers in Rio, but the letters will be news for your many subscribers through the interior.

THE CORRESPONDENCE.

London, June 2nd, 1898. To his Excellency M. de Campos Salles.

London, June 2nd, 1898.

To his Excellency M, de Campos Salles.

Your Excellency.—Before your departure we are most desirous of expressing by letter our great satisfaction at having been afforded the opportunity of personally congra ulcting you on your election.

The almost unanimous vote by which your Excellency has been elected President of the Brazilian republic proves the absolute confidence that it inspires in the country, and the warm reception accorded to your Excellency in England ought to prove not only the pronoun ced sympathies which exist between the two countries, but also how great and keen our appreciation has been of the choice of which your Excellency has been the object.

We have profited by your visit to discuss thoroughly the finances of Frazil, and we have been very pleased to see that your Excellency appreciates at their proper value all the difficulties of the country's financial statution.

Unfortunately, for some years Brazil has passed through a crisis as much political as financial, and, in these circumstances, it is not surprising that, with the great fall which the exchange has undergone, it may have produced financial difficulties which we believe will not be lasting.

Several remedies have been suggested, amongst others the leasing of state railways; but for several reasons, none of these remedies have been adopted, and it would be superfluous to discuss them at present.

A project, emanating from a group of commercial banks at Rio, has been approved by the Brazilian: government, and consists, as your Excellency knows, in consolidating the coupons of the different state loans and guaranteed railways into a fund guaranteed by word and the proper of the customs of Rio, and of other places in Brazil.

Although we regretted a suspension of payments in specie, we have keen for many years the financial dagents of the Brazilian securities, and we nope they win accept.

Your Excellency is aware that we have been for many years the financial agents of the Brazilian government in England, and we have always been proud and pleased to see Brazil faithfully meet all her engagements; but the advantages for Brazil in the projected scheme will depend on a precise adhesion to all the details, and your Excellency will no doubt have noticed in your all too short stay with us the colossal commercial and financial activity which reigns in England, and will carry away the conviction that, after all, the credit of a country constitutes its greatest power.

carry away the conviction that, after all, the credit of a country constitutes its greatest power.

We dare, then, to hope that your Excellency will give us your entire approval of this plan in writing, and also that you will exert your influence and authority, so that the arrangement may be put into execution in all its details, which is not only necessary for the re-establishment of Brazilian credit, but it is equally necessary so that the greatest economy may be practised for the future in all the departments of the state; and in order to meet an engagement solemnly made it is necessary to be able from the present to determine quickly and reduce expenses in all gevernment departments, which up to now have be nincurred on a scale quite outside the resources and means of the country.

In conclusion, we like to think that your Excellency will give us the necessary assurance, adding to it that during your term of office you will do your best to realist these hopes.

That will encourage us to make an appeal to the bondholders of Brazil, so much more that furnished with your Excellency's letter, we shall be able to prove to them that we have neglected nothing in order to safeguard their interests.

London, June 6, 1898.

Messrs. Rothschild & Sons.

Messrs. Rothschild & Sons.

In reply to your letter of the 2nd inst., which I received with the greatest satisfaction, I ought first to thank you, not only for your congratulations on my election as President of the Brazilian republic, but also, in a greater degree, for your frank and friendly reception on my visit to England, a distinction that I most highly appreciate when I again found, with pleasure, the expressions of sympathy and friendship between our two countries, united for a long time by the most lawful interests. At the head of the government, I hope to be able to respond to the confidence of my fellow-citizens in putting under contribution the vast resources of which the government disposes for the development of its riches and prosperity. The prospect of peace and tranquility fortunately leaves the way sufficiently clear for the solution of administrative problems.

Amongst these, the most serious is undeniably the financial problem, which shall at once occupy my attention. The combination proposed by several bankers to which you draw attention, and which has for its object the consolidating of coupons of the different loans of the Union and guaranteed interests on rails ways, will be, when realised, the principle of an administrative action, which surely will produce satisfactory results from a financial point of view. My own responsibility is engaged in this combination as you have noticed, and I can assure you that during the next presidential period the Brazilian government will give full and entire execution to all its terms. I am convinced that once the agreement is established, and in compliance with the complemental measures which will be taken by the administration, amongst which will first come a rule of severe economy, the financial solution will be provided for at the same time as the high interests which are at stake will be suitably protected by the closest reciprocity.

I take this opportunity of renewing the assurance of my highest esteem.

(Signed) Campos Salles

FICTITIOUS VICTORIES.

FICTITIOUS VICTORIES.

The Buenos Aires Slandard reproduces the following extraordinary article from the Correo Espano of that city, in which Admiral Cervera is credited with a victory over the Americans in Santiago on the 4th linst. It is incredible that a journalist should dare to invent such falsehoods. The paan of victory runs as follows:

**Visat langularity** as the falsehoods of the control of victory runs as follows:

**Visat langularity** Espana** Immense joy fills our heart as we trace these lines, which we would wish were written in light so as to kindle, in the sacred fire of love for the immaculate country that saw our birth, the souls of our Spanish and Argentine readres. Yesterday has added fresh laurels to the radiant name of Spain. We have been victorious in Suntiago; we have been victorious in the Hillippines. Cervera, Linares and Augusti have covered with glory the land of Alvaro de Bazan, of Pelavo, of Ferdinand the Catholic! The 4th of July, anniversary of the United States, will serve, henceforward, as an emblem of shame. Mackinley alive dand kicking! in issults and outrages Washington dead. Those who hitherto commemorated the glorious date of their freedom from the yoke of o pression, to-day become tyrants, will recall in the one day their trimph and their defeat, their exaltation to the rank of a free people, and their branding as a rapacious and chastised nation. Blessed be this tremendous and regenerating war which has enabled Spain to show what she is worth!

— The Canadian commissioner recently sent to South America to investigate the various markets in order to ascertain to what extent Canadian manufactures might develop trade in those countries does not give much encouragement. In Mexico, the commissioner says, Germany has nearly all the trade in hardware, but Canadian shovels, picks, spades, axes, forks, boes, etc., would sell, if they compete with the American in price and quality. Hand tools, bicycles, tires, cooking lamps and gas stoves, electrical supplies, water machinery, mining machinery, safes, tinned and japanned ware, steel-clad battle, plumbing materials, agricultural implements and wood-working machinery, he has found, are all salable articles in Mexico, but Canadians will have to exert themselves to make head-awy against the Americans and Germans, who practically control the trade. The reports do not contain any specific trade information, but the sum and substance of them is that if the Canadian manufacturers can compete with the Americans and Germans and other European manufacturers, there is business to be obtained in those countries. — N.Y. European manufacturers, there is business to be obtained in those countries. — N. V. Journal of Commerce.

— The annual meeting of the Amazon Steam Navigation Co. was held in London on the 29th ult., Mr. Robert Norton presiding. In moving the adoption of the report Mr. Norton said that when they last met it was thought the pesition in Brazil was improving, and that the crisis which the country had been going through was drawing to a close. These anticipations had not, however, been realised during 1897, though the prospects to-day had considerably improved. They were, nevertheless, able to recommend a dividend of 4 per cent, for the year, half of which had been earned under most adverse circumstances and for the purposes of the dividend  $\mathcal{L}$  to so had to be taken from the reserve. But shough the accounts were less favorable than for some years past, be thought they were as good as could reasonably be hoped for, considering that at the close of 1896 the exchange s ood at 9d, per milreis, and at the end of last year 7d, only, causing a loss to them of  $\mathcal{L}$  9,0.95, while it had cost them over  $\mathcal{L}$  5,000 to refloat some of their steamers, which had grounded in consequence of the low state of the river last season; and, owing to the fact that the currency had been reduced to a quarter of its face value, it was necessary to increase wages, in order to avoid trouble from strikes, &c. After being charged with the book value ( $\mathcal{L}$  7,000) of their steamer Famingo, which had become a total loss, the reserve now stood at £62,030, despite the sum of £1,296 with which it was charged on a revaluation of the company's property. The most pleasant feature of their accounts was that having sold out £9,800 of their steamer Famingo, which had become a total loss, the reserve now stood at £62,030, despite the sum of £1,296 with which it was charged on a revaluation of the company's property. The most pleasant feature of their accounts was that having sold out £9,800 of their steamer famingo, which made terminating £192,000

JULY 23.— At a meeting of the cabinet a letter was read from the Cuban general Calisto Garcia on the subject of the future government of the island. The views of the Cuban leader are said to have been cordially approved by the cabinet, and the President will reply in favorable terms.

Telegrams from Santiago say that on Monday, 18th inst., there was a stiff fight between the Cubans and Spaniards at Guantanamo in which the Cubans were defeated with heavy loss. The discord which exists between the Cubans and Americans in the filed is now said to have originated in the fact that the latter had difficulty in restraining the former from making all kinds of depredations in the villages through which they passed, and in Santiago itself after the surrender the Cubans pillaged the houses of the private residents.

when they passed, and in Santiago itself after the surrender the Cubans pillaged the houses of the private residents.

Jetty 24.— Approx of the incident between General Shafter and Calisto Garcia, the former has replied to the criticisms of his conduct by the government, that while he freegames the bravery of the Cubans, the war is between Spain and the United States, consequently the Cubans were not entitled to take part in the formal surrender of Santiago.

The state of Havana is described by the local press there as terrible. "tople are dying of hunger in the streets daily.

A Spanish colonel of engineers who arrived at Santiago to enquire whether Guantumno was included in the capituation treaty of Santiago, on being informed that it was, expressed his satisfaction, as the garrison of 6,000 men and the inhabitants were in the last stages of famine. The sum officer returned with liberal supplies of food given by the American general.

In the hospitals of Santiago there are 1,350 Americans sick with instalral fever and other complaints, amongst which are 150 down with vellow fever. Amongst the Spanish prisoners there are about 1000 suffering from various complaints. The state of the American army occupying the heights around Santiago is reported excellent.

In accordance with orders received from Washington, General Shafter has given a formal apology to Calisto Garcia.

The expedition against Puerto Rico which is to consist of 4,0000 men; is expected to effect a landing at Guanica on the south west side of the island, and at Fajarda on the south east. Transports with 3,500 men and five batteries of artillery are reported at Cape Sm. Nicolas in Haiti, en route for Puerto Rico, General Mileshas asked General Shafter to have them and their men landed at Vigo and Sm. Lander.

Tressure is being brought to hear on President McKinley to establish a stable govern-

Pressure is being brought to bear on President McKinley to establish a stable government in Cuba before handing the island over to the Cubans. Public opinion is, however, in favor of its immediate delivery to the revolutionary junta.

The Americans have landed forces in Tavabacoa and Spiritus, and are beseiging Las Tunas in the north west of the province of Santiago.

An event of the first importance to sportsmen and their friends came off on Sunday last at the new cricket grounds at S. The challenge was given by the Americans who wished to meet the members of the Rio Cricket and Athleit Association in a friendly contest in the American national game. As we amounced a fortuight ago, the challenge was accepted with hearty good will, and the match was fixed to come off on Sunday week, but had to be deferred on account of the heavy ratin. Matters were, however, quickly smoothed over in the course of the past week, and Sunday last was fixed for the event. It was guarrally felt a pity that it was impossible to give greater publicity to the fixture, as it was not only a novelty to the vast majority of those who witnessed it, but it is more essentially a spectator's game than cricket. RIO SEAMEN'S MISSION.

The premises of the Rio Sement's Mission were filled to overflowing on the night of the 21st inst., when in response to the instation of the Rev. Irvine Crawshaw, all who take a practical interest in the welfare of the English-speaking satlor met to hear how matters stood with the good work, to hear works of hopefulness for the future and otherwise spend a pleasant enjoyable evening. The rooms were too small to give sitting room to more than half those who came, and many through the hanterooms and took up the best possible point of vantage obtainable in the corrilors and on the stairs. It is probable that when the agreeable reunion of last Thursalay evening is repeated, the organisers will find it necessary to hire a larger half in a more central part of the city for the occasion. The English-speaking community was well represented. Clergymen of various bankers, merchants and traders were there, with kind hearts and kindling enthusiasm adorned the scene with their pretty dresses and prettier faces. And best of all, Jack was there in good round numbers and in the best of spirits, evidently determined as far as in him lay to make all plain sating for those who thought kindly of him and his fellows.

as in him tay to hake a pain and his fellows.

The immediate object of the meeting was not to collect funds, but to create fresh interest in the work, it being felt that the knowledge of what is being done for the benefit of salors being spread abroad would inevitably result in further subscriptions. This the rev. organiser took care to explain when in a few happily chosen words he moved Mr. E. A. Benn, the manager of the London and Brazilian Bank to the chair. Mr. Benn made a very effective chairman on the occasion, and with a businesslike directness called on Mr. Lumby, the missioner in charge of the work, to give —The consumption of crude rubber has been steadily increasing for some time past and lately has shown signs of gaining on the production. The expansion has been most marked lately in Europe where a demand is springing up for rubber tired carriages. There is also a general extension of the use of rubber in the manufacture of mechanical goods, especially on the Continent. As a result manufacturers have been liberal buyers of rubber at advancing prices. Recent auction sides of African grades held at Antwerp resulted in hich prices being paid, and some would-be buyers in this country falled to secure the supplies they wanted, as their bids were too low. This week jublic sales were held in Liverpool and some 170,000 lbs of rubber was offered all of which brought full or higher prices. One of the chief factors in the present strength of the rubber market is the father smaller supplies of Parf rubbers than was estimated. The increased production of Brazilian rubber early in the season was figured at 6 to 7 per cent, and now that the crop year is nearly closed, the receipts at primary markets show a gain of only about 11/2 to 2 per cent, which does not keep pace with the increased demand. The steamer Dominic, which has just arrived from Para, brought only 300,500 hs of rubber, whereas in her former trip she carried a cargo of 649,400 lbs of rubber. Cables received yesterday from Para showed the market there very strong, island fine being quoted at 9,900 reis, with exchange at 7,9/12d, which was equivalent to something over 95c here.—N. Y. RIO DE JANEIRO, JULY 26th, 1898.

THERE has been not a little harsh criticism in Latin-American circles of the policy and conduct of the United States toward Spain. Motives of a highly reprehensible character have been freely ascribed to the Americans, and they have even been charged with the purpose of reducing all Latin-America to a kind of tutelage to the United States. One of the French papers of this city has been greatly disturbed by the aggressiveness of the Anglo-Saxon and has been urging Brazil to unite with the Spanish-American republics before it is too late. In such questions, fact and common-sense ought to be the guide for us all; otherwise we shall run the risk of falling into some very absurd errors. In the first place, there is absolutely no foundation whatever for the assertions that the United States intends to assume a protectorate, or anything of that description, over Latin-America. No such purpose has ever been advanced by the government of the United States, nor has any responsible member of any government ever advo-United States, nor has any responsible member of any government ever advocated it. The turbulent republics of Central and South America have been uniformly treated with kindness and with studious regard for their rights and independence. Even now, the party favoring the annexation of Cuba, which is merely a Spanish colony and have is merely a Spanish colony and has never yet been independent, is far from being large and aggressive. From what has thus far occurred, and from what we know of the American people, there is no disposition whatever to ignore the rights and feelings of Latin-Americans, nor to take one single advantage of their weakness. On the contrary, there is an almost quixotic sentiment in the United States in favor of promoting the welfare of these republics and of assuming a of these republis and of assuming a sort of voluntary responsibility for all their errors and mishaps. The object is neither selfish nor mercenary, but is a menuter senish nor increenary, but is a matter of high policy for the United States to prevent any European nation from invading or oppressing an American republic. As for the charges against the United States. States to prevent any European nation from invading or oppressing an American republic. As for the charges against the United States of being actuated by selfish motives and of exercising brutal force in the present struggle with Spain, the facts clearly prove them untrue in every particular. Two or three illustrations are all that we require to show this. When Admiral Dewey destroyed from bombarding and obliging the surrender of the city simply to avoid the destruction of private property and the loss of life among non-combatants. He had the city at his discretion, and he knew that he could take it later on without resorting to a bombardment. What other power would have exercised such clemency? Would Spain have done it? When the Spanish fleet was destroyed off Santiago, and a large num-ber of prisoners were captured, they were taken to the United States and treated with kindness and consideration. treated with kindness and consideration Everything was done to soothe their wounded pride and to make them forget wounded pride and to make them forget that they had been conquered. And then the government resolved to send them home, as a compliment to their courage. What other nation, may we ask, has ever treated its prisoners of war in such a manner? Has France ever done it? When the city of Santiago finally capitulated, the United States undertook to send all the Spanish soldiers home, and has actually contracted with a Spanish seamship company, whose steamers have been shut up in Mexican ports to escape capture, to perform the service. These steamers are therefore not only allowed to return to Spain, but are paid handsomely for taking home with them some thousands of their own countrymen. somery for taking none with them some thousands of their own countrymen! And should the war continue, these same steamers will doubtless be armed and sent out to prey on American commerce! What other nation has ever merce! What other nation has ever exercised such clemency and forbear-ance? There is not a parallel for it in history! Great Britain is not an ungenerous foe, but she has never yet treated an enemy with so much courtesy and consideration. With all hearts? With all her and consideration. tional politeness, France never yet failed to humiliate a defeated antagonist, nor Germany to follow up a victory with unsparing blows. It is the fate of war, and the vanquished knows it. And yet, in this war the Americans have not only been generous to the vanquished. been generous to the vanquished, only been generous to the vanquished, solicitous for the protection of life and property, and considerate toward an exceptionally vindictive foe, but they have even gone out of their way to compline the premy on his course, and pliment the enemy on his courage and fortitude. This is not what the world has thus far known as war, nor is it the conduct of a nation filled with selfish ambition and dominated by rapacious greed. It is the spirit of a nation which is fighting for a principle, which is conscious of the justice of its cause, and which has no thought of striking an unfair blow. To the astonishment of the world, the Americans have known how to strike swiftly and decisively, and they have also known how to be considerate and merciful in the hour of victory. When the Spaniards recall the opprobrious terms which they have used against Americans, it will be with shame and regret, for they have been treated as though such things had never been said. And when the friends of Spain recall the extravagant prophe-sies which they have uttered of the greed and sinister designs of the great Aurtlo-Sayan remails it will be sith greed and sinister designs of the great Anglo-Saxon republic, it will be with an apology. This war may be a turn-ing-point in the history of the United States and may mark the beginning of a new era for her, but it will also usher in a new era in the history of war—an era of generous appreciation of a defeated antagonist, and of generous consideration for the lives and property of non-combatants

THE banquet given to the minister of finance at the Cassino on Friday even-ing last was undoubtedly a brilliant and imposing affair. It was given in the name of the representative native and foreign commercial houses of this city are of a character which does not indicate finuncial ability or resource, nor are they anything more than makeshifts to relieve the financial situation from an impending danger. One of these was an arbitrary change in the interest rate on the internal loan, which, while relieving the treasury from a part of its interest obligations, did much injury to those who invested in these loans for relieving the treasury from a part of its interest obligations, did much injury to those who invested in these loans for the purpose of securing a fixed income. The second measure was the no less arbitrary refunding of interest of foreign loans and guarantees—a measure not yet definitely settled with respect to the railway guarantees, and which has elicited much criticism from some of the best financial newspapers abroad. These measures surely are not sufficient to warrant a public manifestation of approval, nor do we believe that the approval, nor do we believe that the banquet of Friday last can be considered as such. It was announced that the affair had been promoted by the snathe affair had been promoted by the snational and foreign commerce, and yet in its highly eulogistic notice on the following day the Noticia said editorially: «We ought also to felicitate our illustrious colleague of the Jornal do Commercio, Dr. José Carlos Rodrigues, for the brilliancy of execution of so worthy an homage, of which he was gauss, of the initiately of execution of so worthy an homage, of which he was the initiator and one of the principal organizers. As Dr. J. C. Rodrigues has not denied the statement, we may presume that it is true. What then becomes of the widely-advertised initiative of anotheral and familiar land. tive of «national and foreign commerce?» The manifestation was ini itated and largely organized by a journalist who is an intimate friend of the finance minister, and the affair is then labelled a «public recognition!» We can not, under such circumstances, believe that the business men of this otherwethat the business men of this city have really expressed an opinion on the matter. They have simply eaten a dinner organized by the editor of the fornal do Commercio.

We have been waiting for detailed information of the mayal battle off Sortiago which would show who was actually in command of the American Beet during the battle, but until this morning the particulars have been vague and unsatisfactory. Admiral Sampson was in general command, as we all know, but his flagship, the New York, was absent at the beginning of the battle and did not return until just before it ended. Commodore Schley was second in command, and his flagship, the Brooklyn, was in the thick of the fight from beginning to end. This morning's telegrams state that Admiral Sampson's report of the battle had been sent in, and had excited comment because he made no mention of Commodore Schley. As the first telegrams mentioned the absence of Sampson and the orders issued by Schley at the beginning of the fight, we must believe that the battle was actually fought by the latter and that the honors of the victory are due to him.

The people will begin to understand that the neglect of all sanitary rules must sometime bring a terrible penalty upon them, and the endemic character of yellow fever in some of these towns is eloquent proof of the truth of this.

— The Central railway authorities having begun the construction of a building in Rua Santo Christo without the risto of the municipal prefect, the agent of the prefect in that district has imposed a fine. The director of the road denies the legality of the fine, but the prefect very properly supports his subordinate. Let us hope he will enforce it, for the official should be subject to such regulations as well as the private cliizen.

—The state of São Paulo has conceded a subvention of 300.000$ for a railway to be constructed from Porto Feliz to some station on the Sorocabana railway. Happy port! Unhappy taxpayer!

—The Commercio of São Paulo is informed that the employés at Jundiahy of the União Sorocabana-Yusuna Company have not received their wages for the last five months. —The minister of industry has advised the director of the Central that his proposal to re-establish secturns farcs, based on the addition of 25% to the single fare, has been accepted, the only change being a slight increase in the number of days for which the return ticket is valid. Such conditions are purely vexatious, and serve no good purpose whatever.

The coupon due on the 31st March last is still unpaid, and the sinking fund has been suspended for some years. He adds that as to the fluum branch, the bond-holders have had no interest for years, and a law suit has been on for the last 8 months on the part of the combined bondholders, represented by the London and Brazilian Bank, He further asserts that in his opinion the surplus revenue is being used in extending the line instead of being paid over to the bondholders. —An interesting statement has been published in Montevideo regarding the existing railway systems of South American countries. The particulars are of course available to any one who wishes to find them, in the Statesman's Year Book or elsewhere, but the comparison is of interest in various ways. The Argentine republic stands at the head, with 14,550 kilometres, closely followed by Brazii with 13,532. Chill follows with 4,033, and Uruguay is last with 3,541. In the matter of cost the figures are not so favorable to this country. Its average cost per kilometre is exceeded by that of Brazii; but those of Chili and Uruguay are considerably lower. It would, we fear, be somewhat difficult to give a satisfactory explanation of this. Generalities are dangerous, but it is hard to see why the Argentine cost all round should not be if anything lower than in the adopting countries, where difficulties of construction are as a rule greater.— Review. —The news of the sudden death of Mr. Nicholas J. Bouwer, in Buenos Aires, will be sad news to the musy railway men who have come to Brazil from Argentina. The deceased gentleman was not only favorably known and appreciated as the representative of Baring Brothers, and of the firm of Samuel B. Hale & Co but was the legal representative of the Central Argentine and Great Western of Argentina railways. Mr. Bouwer was esteemed and respected by all who knew him, of whatever nationality, and he was beloved by those who knew him well. The genitality and true manifess of his character could be known only to those who had the pleasure of his personal acquaintance. His manner was somewhat reserved with strangers and castrol acquaintances, but those who got beyond this outer wall found in him a wealth of gentle kindliness which became a pleasant surprise. Mr. Bouwer was a study champion of what he thought right, and his pladgment was of the soundest. In his death the British colony there looses one of its strongest and its best members. Mr. Bouwer married the eldest daughter of Mr. John F. Pearson, and leaves an interesting family to mourn the irreparable loss of a kind husband and a devoted father.

— When the *Temerario* went into a black-smith's shop at Asuncion for repairs, a said Smadwit, with a far away look in his eyes, a thought we should hear no more about her. But it would seem that the energy of her heroic officers and crew has been too much for the unparalleled interthess of the Paraguayan smith, and the adventurous boat is again pushing her way up stream into Matto Grosso. It may be that by this time these modern argomatis are preparing to plunge boldly into the depths of the Brazilian forests on their way across the continent, and I shall wait their reappearance as anxiously as I am waiting for a gumboat to take legs and cross over a continent—and it's only a Spanish boat can do it. After reading the accounts of what they have done in the past and of what they propose to do in the future, I confidently expect to see the *Temerario* emerge from the Amazon or the Orinoco some day with flags flying and guns roaring defiance to the unconverted and unbelieving Yankees.*

—According to the fornal do Brasil it is reported that the government intends closing the Polytechnic School. Not a bad idea.

—On Friday at 7 o'clock p.m. at the Cassino Fluminense a dinner was given to Minister Bernardino de Campos. Why?

—According to some of the reports of the congressional debates, Serzedello wishes to place Glycerio on the Cubatão and Seabra wishes to place Prudente there. Is the Cubatão so desirable a place?

—Smith wishes to know whether it would not be a good idéa to turn against the accused congressment the weapon they used against the ex-revolutionists—punishment, under the pretext of amnesty, with the loss of two year's pay.

— France is about to declare war on Haiti because the latter has expelled a meddlesome woman from the country. Consistency can't be appreciated very highly in France, where all sorts and conditions of men have been expelled from the country for the least of reasons.

—If congress has confidence in the courts of justice, it certainly ought to permit the trial of its members accused of a plot to murder the President of the republic. If it has no confidence in the courts, then it should without dray vote the necessary laws for establishing courts worthy of confidence.

—The ordinary weekly meeting of the Ennes de Souza national agricultural society did not take place at the Polytechnic School last week.

—On Saturday there was a fight between two reporters on Rua do Ouvidor. Neither appears to have been much injured, but it is said that the air was full of flying ejaculations.

—In one of the reports of the speech of Deputy Galeão Carvalhal he is credited with saying that no one attaches any importance to Decoleciano Martyr. Did Marshal Floriano Peixoto attach no importance to him when he made him honorary captain? And did Gen. Arthur Oscar attach no importance to him when he pounced plaintive grievances into his sympathetic ear?

Admiration for the eminent military ability of the illustrious Rio Grandense and gratitude for his earnest and efficient efforts to free the country from a corrupt and brutal despotism will cause the temple to be througed with the best class of Brazilians eager to do honor to his memory.

Brazilians eager to do honor to his memory.

—It is stated that Minister Jardim profoundly laments the slow progress made on the new quay between the ferry slips and the war arsenal. He intends to recommend the government to expedite the work. This will of course increase expenses, but the minister apparently does not allow this to trouble him. It is his duty to treat such matters professionally (the is a military engineer), and the minister of finance can look after the economies.

On Sunday building No 129, Rua do Rosario was destroyed by fire, the adjoining buildings being somewhat damaged. Before being extinguished the fire reached the back of the Paschoal confectionery on Rua do Ouvidor and destroyed the stock of wines and liquors stored there. The proprietors of No 129 have been held for investigation, it being stated that they were at work all day cleaning up, and that the fire broke out about half an hour after they left the place. the place.

— Trouble seems to have arisen between the director of the day school section of the Gymnasio Nacional (ex-Collegio D. Pedro II) and the sfree faculty of juridical sciences which has been making free use of the school edifice by permission of the government. The said faculty is a private corporation, while the school belongs to the state. The director has frequently complained of the inconvenience of having his rooms occupied by an outside corporation, but to no effect.

— Smalwyt says that he is beginning to feel that there is something supernatural about Zola. When he saw that the Versailles couri intended to decide against him, the great romaneist left the court-room and then disappeared. Since then it has been reported that he had gone to Switzerland, Belgium and Norway, and that he would remain concealed in France. His arrival has been registered in all these places, and also at Kiel, on his way to Norway. It's an uncanny kind of a man that can be in so many places at once.

of the fittle jorkopings—the expense of stamping them all —At 10 clock on the morning of the 22nd Antonio Villas Boas, Alferes Henrique Silva, and another were standing in the Largo do Rocio waiting for a train when they were suddenly attacked by a group of men armed with sticks, who are said to have been secret police. Villas Boas was badly injured and Silva was also considerably bruised. If it is true that the secret police are committing these outrageous assaults, it is time that the government put a step to it. No matter how unworthy of confidence the enemies of the government may be, the latter is not justified in employing means of retaliation or repression so irregular and dangerous as this. There is no viler instrument than a secret police when it is used for violent purposes, and the government which employs it will stand dispraced for all time. It remains to be proved, however, that the recent assaults were committed by secret police.

nowever, that the recent assaults were committed by secret police.

—The first meeting of the directors of a new society, called the Sociedade Commemorativa das Datas Nacionaes, was held at the municipal council chamber on the 21st inst. The first project under consideration was one for festivities to commemorate the independence of Brazil— which still remains the 7th of September. It was resolved that a field mass should be celebrated in the Campo de S. Christovão on that day, as a part of the festivities, and that appropriate festivities should take place in the Largo S. Prancisco the evening before—which probably means fire works, and possibly a conflagration. The remainder of the programme will be settled later on. At the suggestion of Sr. José Carlos de Carvalho, steps will be taken at once to prepare for the 400th anniversary of the discovery of Brazil on May 3, 1900. Would it not be better to first determine whether Brazil was first discovered by Pinzon on January 1, or Cabral on May 3?

— Our readers in the suburbs should be on their guard against some scamps who are going about residence streets in the character of municipal and sanitary officials, and who are making a good business for themselves by imposing and collecting fines. It would be good policy to demand the name and authority of all such inspectors.

—We note with pleasure that the rumor which gained ground here that Chili had difficulty in fuding any capable men to fill the posts left vacant by death from yellow fever in the legation in this capital was incorrect, as the new secretary of legation, Mr. E. Mc Chure Beza arrived here by the Oropesa on the 19th inst. We sincerely trust the new secretary will be more fortunate amongst us than his predecessor.

— There was a very satisfactory fight between two Italians in an estalagem. in Rua do Gen, Caldwell on the 20th. Their names are of no consequence. It is only essential to say that one was armed with a knife and the other with a revolver. The man with the knife was the quicker of the two and got in some effective work before the man with the revolver woke up. The latter then settled down to business and planted two shots where they would do the mist good. Both arists were captured red-handed, because they could not get away, and were then taken to the Missricordia in a serious condition.

The postoffice authorities will again permit us to complain. Last week our São Paulo mail was posted ou the 20th, and should have gone forward by the night express. And yet our agent there. Mr. J. W. A good business might result from a satisfactory trial. We are also requested to furnish information about ramie production in this country. Can any one tell us if a trial has ever been made, and if so, where?

— We see by an exchange that the London and Brazilian Bank, of Santos, has purchased the edifice in which that bank is located, paying 250 coof for it.

— A question has arisen between Sir James Murray & Sons and their representative in this city, Robert Balmer, in regard to business connected with the branch works established here for the manufacture of Murray's Fluid Magnesia, and the procuration of the latter has been revoked. The senior partner in the firm of Sir James Murray & Sons, Mr. Edward James Murray, is now here for the purpose of settling the business.

—An extensive swindle has just come to light in São Paulo. Some time ago Messrs. Victor Nothmann and Martin Burchard sold a large tract of hand in the subarb of Bella Cintra to the Banco da Republica. Recently the lank sent representatives there to examine the lands, and to their astonishment they found a considerable part of it enclosed and covered with buildings. An inquiry developed the circumstance that the building lots were being sold by Sr. Nicoláo Gibello Gatti, who also exhibited deeds from the same parties from whom the bank purchased the land. There has been, of course, a fraud committed somewhere and the police are now investigating the matter.

— The secretary of the bureau of information of the Philadelphia Muscums has given out the following statement:— In Bolivia is a large agricultural area in which the rubber tree grows in a natural state. For over a year the Commercial Muscum has been in correspondence with the Bolivian government to obtain facts bearing upon this subject, and the muscum is now prepared to give this valuable information to any syndicate which contemplates extending its commercial enterprise into Bolivia. One of the latest laws provides that anyone who satisfies the Bolivian government of his responsibility may, upon payment of a nominal fee — something like 45 cents a year—take possession of 500 estradas. A single estrada embraces 150 rubber trees, and 500 estradas would amount to 75,000 rubber trees. The individual possessors of the estradas may consolid the into a company, and thus obtain control of large tracts.

FINANCIAL NOTES

— Brazilian funds are still slowly declining in London, yesterday's quotation being 49 ½ on the 4 per cent loan of 1889, which stood at 50 on Saturday.

—In the budget of the state of Pernambuco the revenue is estimated at 9,800,0008 and the expenditure at 10,178,686$155, including arrears of indebtedness to the amount of 1,749,-

— The president of Paraná has signed the bill voted by the state legislature for a lien on the revenue to be derived from the export duty on mate as security for a loan 3,000,0008.

— If some one is ambitious of earning the right to public gratitude, let him ascertain and make known who paid, directly and indirectly, for the dinner given last Friday to the minister of finance.

- The minister of finance says that the oreign debt of Brazil, including the Oeste le Minas loan, whose principal now amounts of £,506,000, has been reduced to £8,006,000, But the funding scheme increases it to [48,006,000]. £48,006,000.

—The state government of Pernambuco has borrowed from the Ranco de Pernambuco the sum of 400,000 for six months, paying interest at the rate of 8 % or annum. This money, it is stated, is to be used in paying interest on state bonds.

— The minister of finance says that spe-culators invented the false report of the imminent suspension of payments on the foreign debt account. Why, Mr. Minister, haven't payments been suspended? If not, what has become of the funding scheme?

what has become of the funding scheme?

— The state of Piauhy has applied to the national government for assistance under the provisions of art. 5 of the constitution. The prejudices suffered from the drouth are given as the reason for this application. The state of Parahyba has also asked for assistance, but specified the sum of 150,000 belonging to an appropriation of 1892 which has not yet been paid.

— We beg to call the attention of Messrs.

M. N. Rothschild & Sons to the following paragraph in the report of the minister of finance:— a Although the budget for 1897 showed a balance of about 30,000,000$, it is was ascertained, when that budget began to go into operation, that in reality there was a deficit of from 120,000,000$ to 130,000,000$. When the budget for 1899 is voted Messrs. Rothschild will do well to inquire whether it is read or fictitions.

On Friday evening last a banquet was given at the Cussino Finminense to Sr. Bernardino de Cumpos, minister of finance, nominally by the national and foreign commercial houses of this city. Some 200 covers were laid and representatives of all the principal banks and business houses were present together with the cabinet and some other important personages. Several speeches were made, and the Western and Brazilian Company having laid on a special line, several complimentary messages were received during the evening.

—Would it not be good policy for the government to offer inducements for the redemption of those Banco da Republica notes which were printed in Germany? The paper used in these notes is so stiff and brittle that the notes can not be used long without tearing, and the result is that it is a nuisance to handle them. It was a great mistake to select such a paper.

— The value of the exports from Brazil to foreign countries in the year (857) is estimated by the minister of finance in his report at 831,866,0185, equivalent at the exchange rate of 7.23/32d, per 1$, to £26,752,224. The value of the imports from foreign countries he estimates at 671,650,2856, equivalent to £21,567,660. This leaves a balance of 605,203,6385, equivalent to £21,567,660. This leaves a balance of the exports, which, however, according to the minister, was converted into a deficit of 133,796,5625, equivalent to £4,460,050, by public and private remittances to the amount of 300,000,0005, equivalent in sterling to £9,641,6414.

— When the Brazilian government begins

— When the Brazilian government begins to practise the economies which the new President has promised to inaugurate it would do well to cut down its expenditure in subsidies to its English and other newspaper organs. These subsidies, which have in the past been considerable, are paidat the expense of Brazilian bondholders, who must naturally feel that insult is added to injury when they are multi-ed to support organs whose chief duty it is to circulate false news about their interests and to defend schemes aimed at their pockets. According to all accounts, some of the subsidies are now considerably in arrear; but it is too much to hope that there is any present intention of dropping them altogether.—

THE RIO NEWS.

THE RIO NEWS.

This paper is now in its seth year having originally been published as The South American Mail and The British and American Mail. It assumed its present title at the beginning of April, 1879, when it was published three times a month. From a trimenthy it has been changed to a weekly publication, and from four pages it has been increased to twelve.

As an advertising medium This News occupies an exceptionally advantageous position. It circulates widely throughout Inrael, and also in Europe and the United states. Its subscribers are principally business men interested in Brazilian trade, industries and investments. No other periodical, even with much arger circulation, can offer better inducements to advertisers who seek the attention of these classes. All communications should be addressed to the Editor and Publisher, Caixa do Correio 258, Rio de Janeiro.

No encommendas of any description will be received at the Company's offices.

For passages and information apply to the office of LAGE IRMÃOS,
